Fund increase efforts await consideration

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Several efforts to increase funds for some state agency operations were awaiting consideration today when the House resumed its debzte of Missouri's $2 billion budget.

The House opened its initial debate of the measure funding most state agencies and elective offices Tuesday , departing for the first time from budget recommendatons made by its appropriations committee.

It sent the intial three of the eight budget bills, totaling $723 million, to the Senate without a change form the committee's recommendations.

But St. Louis Democrat Al Mueller won approval of his amendment increasing money for the State Division of Community Development over the objections of Appropriations Chairman James Russell of Florissant.

Increases in funds for two panels, the Missouri Elections Commission and the Commission on Human Rights, were also approved by the House but those modifications were supported by Russell.

Mueller was joined by a number of rural legislators in trying to restore funds cut from Gov. Christoperh S. Bond's request for the community development program. Those lawmakers cited the significant assistance that division had given to many of the small communities around the state in obtaining federal and state aid as well as in general community development.

The increased funding for the elections commission, although well below what that panel sought, would enable it to hire an attorney and an accountant-investigator as well as increase the money available for outside legal assistance.

Since it went into operation in January, the commission has been deluged with requests for clarification of the tough new campaign financing law, and its director Al Kemp said it needed the additional personnel to meet the demands being placed on it.

Opposition to the increase was slight, coming from some members who said it appeared the commission had done little to answer the questions arising from the law.

"I'm just concerned," said Canton Democrat Richard DeCoster, "That we're pouring money down a rat hole and getting the same thing in return."

Final approval of the first three appropriations bills funding the public debt, public school operations and the revenue department came on overwhelming votes. But Minority Floor Leader Robert Snyder took the opportunity to criticize the system used this sesssion to formulate the bills.

"The appropriations process this year has been a shambles," the Kirkwood Republican charged. ""It has been deliberately confused.

18-month-old baby found dead in crib

NEW MADRID--Natural causes were attributed for the death early this morning of 18-month-old Mary Joe Stevens, daughter of Janet Stevens, 16, of 910 Davis St. and Jacob M. Stevens of Pahokee, Fla., according to New Madrid County Coroner Gene Clayton.

The baby was found dead in bed about 4:55 a.m. by Tommy Calton, 20, when he made a routine check to see if the baby was all right, Clayton said.

The mother told investigating officers it was the habit of Calton, who lives with her, to get up during the night to check on the baby.

Clayton said that according to Mrs. Stevens, the child had had a cold and runny nose for about a week and had developed dysentery over the weekend.

The body is at Richards Funeral Home, where arrangements are incomplete.

County health agency to inspect meat sections

BENTON--The Scott County Health Department will routinely inspect meat departments of stores in the county since no other agency is responsible, Warren Manning, administrator of the health department, said Tuesday.

Manning said he had thought the Department of Agriculture checked to see if grocery stores and meat packing houses were meeting Food and Drug Administration guidelines, but recently discovered such inspections are not being made.

"We're going to branch out and push this routine inspection of meat departments," Manning said. "Some are far worse than any restaurant."

In the past month the health department has inspected 44 eating and drinking establishments, as well as several meat departments. Manning said a few firms did not meet specifications, but did not release the names.

"We try to work with them, give them a chance to improve," Manning said. "If they have made no improvement when we check them again, we're happy to release the names of the establishments," he said.

The frequency of inspection for a business depends upon the conditions found in prior checks. A restaurant which is sanitary and meets the guidelines may not be checked as often as one which is found to be substandard or has a history of problems.

There is no set time for the inspections, and no warning is given. "What would be the use of checking them if they knew we were coming and had a chance to clean up?" Manning said.

He said the inspectors usually receive cooperation from eating and drinking establishments, but that even if a place passes inspection one day, there is no guarantee it will be kept up to minimum standards.

"It could pass inspection in the morning, but by the afternoon it might not," Manning said.

The management is primarily responsible for keeping the restaurant clean. He cited the case of a restaurant that failed to pass inspection on one occasion but did pass after it had received a new manager a few weeks later.

Chain restaurants usually are pretty good in this respect, but even some well-known restaurants at times become lax, Manning said.

He also said the health department will, on a temporary basis, inspect private water and sewge systems in New Madrid County at a cost of $50 per inspection.

This is done with the understanding that it will not interfere with the department's work in Scott County.

South Vietnam surrenders to enemy forces

SAIGON (AP) — The Saigon government surrendered unconditionally today and Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops occupied the capital. At first the South Vietnamese stood in doorways and watched the troops pour into the city, then some began cheering.

Many former government soldiers turned in their arms and tried to lose themselves amid the civilian population. But there were periodic outbursts of gunfire — some from pockets of resistance and others from celebrating Viet Cong and North Vietnamese firing into the air.

A police colonel shot himself in front of the National Assembly building after walking up to an army memorial statue ad saluting. He died later in a hospital.

Some South Vietnamese pilots continued today to fly planeloads of relatives and other members of the armed forces to neighboring Thailand. Several thousand South Vietnamese fled the country by this route Tuesday.

And U.S. officials struggled with the logistics of resettling the estimated 45,000 South Vietnamese it helped evacuate from the country before the surrender. The end of official American presence in the country came late Tuesday.

People in Hanoi raced into the streets and embraced each other in a "a general explosion of joy," the Yugoslav news agency Tanjug reported. Flags were raised, and the North Vietnamese capital "became the noisiest and happiest city in the world."

"At 11:30 (a.m.) on April 30, 1975, the flag of the Provisional Revolutionary Government (PRG) of the Republic of South Vietnam fluttered above the palace of the puppet president and on other buildings in the city," declared Hanoi's Vietnam News Agency, in a broadcast monitored in Tokyo.

The broadcast reiterated that Saigon has been renamed Ho Chi Minh City in honor of the late North Vietnamese leader.

President Duong Van Minh announced his government's unconditional surrender in a broadcast at midmorning and ordered the South Vietnamese armed forces to turn in their arms. He was then picked up by North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops and taken to an unknown location.

Four hours later, a jeepload of North Vietnamese soldiers brought the 51-year-old retired general back to a microphne, and he appealed again to the government forces to give up.

Loud explosions were heard in the late afternoon in Saigon. They were reported aboard an ammunition barge burning in the Saigon River, but no dmage was reported in the city except at the U.S. Ebassy and other American buildings, which the Saigonese cleaned out after their former occupants were evacuated.

Soft drink machine keys taken

Keys to all Coca-Cola machines in Scott, New Madrid and Mississippi counties have been reported stolen, police said today.

The keys, about 100 of them, were taken from a pickup truck parked at the U. D. Wethington home, 117 Reuben St., between 8 p.m. Tuesday and 6 a.m. today.

Also taken from the truck were a tool box and assorted tools valued at $100

Police said the truck was locked at the time of the theft, but entry was gained by breaking a window.

Other thefts reported to police include the theft of an alternator from the Andy Tomlin garage, 108 W. Gladys St., between Friday and Monday. The alternator was valued at $60.

Dawn Gillian, 109 Taylor St., told police that a coffee pot, clock radio and watch were taken from her home between 2 a.m. Saturday and 6:15 p.m. Monday.

Miss Gillian told police she left her home after a fight with a boy friend and when she returned on Monday the items were gone.

13-year-old girl on bike hit by truck

A 13-year-old girl received minor cuts Tuesday afternoon when her bicycle was struck by a truck at the intersection of Airport Drive and East Malone Avenue.

Police said Marcia Lynn Thompson, 200 Dona St., had stopped her bicycle on the right side of a city-owned dump truck on Airport Drive.

The truck driver, John Dee Moore, 26, of 1518 Matthews Ave., made a right turn onto Malone Avenue and the right rear wheel rolled over the bicycle.

Police said the girl was not seriously injured and no arrests were made.

Plans to close road denied

Bill Moore, member of the Levee District No. 2 board of commissioners, flatly denied Tuesday that the Commerce levee road was closed or that the board has any plans to close the road. The board members include Paul Stricker of Lusk Chapel, Garland Buck of Commerce and Moore, 5 Cotton Trace, Sikeston.

A committee of Commerce residents, composed of Lawrence Pobst, Bill Beardslee, George Hopper and Frank Glaus, complained to the Scott County Court Monday that the Levee board was attempting to close the road and that fencing was already being installed.

The court pointed out that if it is a legally dedicated county road, only the county Court can close it after conducting a public hearing.

"We are not trying to close the road," Moore said Tuesday. "The road would never be closed without a public hearing. There's never been any thought of closing the road without a public hearing and there's never been any decision made to close the road."

Asked about the fencing, Moore said a fence has been installed on land leased by Herb Burger, at his request, because some persons have driven onto his land, which they're not supposed to do.

The committee from Commerce told the County Court Monday that the levee board reportedly planned to install a gate on the road to keep it closed, but Moore said, "There's been no decision to put up a gate." Even if there was, he said a public hearing would have to be set up, which would have to be cleared with the County Court before a hearing could be held.

He said he wasn't even sure a gate could be set up on the ground.

CB radios taken in 1-block radius

BENTON--Three citizens band radios and an FM radio were stolen from three cars in a one-block radius Tuesday night, Scott County Sheriff John Dennis said today.

A citizens band radio and the FM radio , valued at $200, were stolen from a car owned by Richard Urhahn. The other two citizens band radios, valued at $150 each, were stolen from cars owned by Albert Bollinger Jr. and Joe Stuckey.

Dennis said the Urhahn car also received extensive damage, but that no other details were available since deputies were still investigating the thefts, which occurred sometime between midnight and 5:30 a.m. today.

In explaining the reason for so many thefts of radios in one night, Dennis said, "There's a good market for them."

Emergency funding bill in limbo

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Senate and House appropriations committee chairmen exchanged stubborn letters Tuesday, leaving negotiations over a $35 million emergency funding bill in limbo.

A witness immunity bill also became bogged down in a Senate committee while a tax relief for the elderly measure advanced and a Senate-approved judicial revision plan underwent House committee scrutiny.

Rep. James Russell, D-Florissant, who heads the House money panel, accused Senate appropritaions chief Norman Merrell of a "certain disinterest in the welfare of Missouri citizens" in a letter after Merrell led a walkout of senators at a conference meeting Monday.

Merrell, D-Monticello, responded by letter to the charges by saying the emergency funding bill "contains few real emergencies" and that further meetings with House members "would accomplish nothing." Russell had requested another meeting for Tuesday night.

The Senate appropriation panel members walked out on the House conferees after locking horns over a $278,000 mobile cancer detection program which Merrell said is untried and possibly dangerous, but which Russell supported.

The emergency bill is designed to keep state agencies operating until the next fiscal year begins July 1.

State Budget Director Mark Edelman said if the bill is not approved, about 1,000 state workers might not get paid in June and no more funds will be left to buy prison food supplies. But he added the food suppliers might keep up shipments on credit until July 1.

Besides the cancer detection program, the two sides differ on plans to build new prisons and provide tax relief for the elderly. They have agreed, however, on a $6.2 million appropriations for a University of Missouri-St. Louis optometry school.

Another bill providing more tax relief for the elderly was recommended by the Senate Ways and Means Committee.

That bill, a substitute for a measure approved in the House, lifts the maximum income to receive the tax advantages to $8,500 per year for the elderly.

The witness immunity bill took a step back as the Senate Criminal Jurisprudence Committee decided to reconsider it after only approving it Monday.

The vote to reconsider was spurred by Senate Majority Leader Lawrence Lee, who opposes it but was not present at the meeting where the House-approved measure was recommended to the Senate floor.

After gaing the move to reconsider, Lee successfully called for adjournemnt of the committee meeting, leaving the bill unresolved. The bill would compel witnesses to testify in cases where they might incriminate themselves, but would shield them from prosection for their court statements.

The House Judiciary Committe heard Chief Justice Robert Donnelly of the Misssouri Supreme Court Support a measure revising Missouri's court structure.

Donnelly said the proposed constituional amendment would "take out rigidity and put in some flexibility" to more evenly spread the workload of judges by expanding jurisdictions of lower court judges.

But rural committee members were skeptical, calling the measure already approved in the Senate "elitist" and saying there has been no public outcry for court revision.

The plan, which must be approved by voters to become effective, would eliminate certain courts, allow for more nonpartisan judges and replace magistrate court judges with associate circuit judges. It also would establish municipal court judges who would be required to be lawyers to hear cases involving city ordinances.

HOW TO SLANT THE NEWS

We are grateful to one of our compatriots for calling attention to a recent editorial in the Cincinnati (Ohio) Enquirer which effectively illustrates why readers have a legitimate complaint against some newspapers for "slanting" the news.

To quote the Enquirer:

"From the time Chile's Marxist president, Salvador Allende, was toppled from power and assassinated in September, 1973, the most persistent of the resultant myths has been that the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) was somehow his executioner. Indeed, the allegations nurtured by Allende's mourners in the United States and around the world undoubtedly have been a factor in mustering support for a full-scale inquiry into the CIA..."

"Curiously enough, the New York Times Seymour Hersh, the original publicizer of the My Lai massacre and, more recently, the exposer of a wave of accusations involving CIA domestic surveillance, devoted himself to a quiet inquiry into the CIA's role in Allende's ultimate downfall.

"In an interview with New York's Village Voice, Mr. Hersh said...

'I spent an incredible amount of work — dozens of interviews — digging into a number of allegations by a number of people that the American military was directly involved in the overthrow of Allende. I did a lot of work and I couldn't find it. It's just not true; in other words, it's not there."

And what was Mr. Hersh's reaction to this legitimate news story? This is what he told the Village Voice:

"I'm not going to write that story; it's kaput."

Thus is revealed in all its nakedness, the policy which is not only followed by Mr. Hersh, but by other editors and writers at the New York Times; if a story reflects unfavorably, against the United States, you suppress it. You simply don't report it. You print what is wrong, or alleged to be wrong, about America; you do not report that which is right about America.

Commented the Cincinnati Enquirer: "It would have been worthwhile, in our view, if Mr. Hersh had written 'that story' — to demonstrate, once and for all, the falsity of some of the allegations."

It would also have tended to reestablish public confidence in the reliability of the New York Times — a confidence, which, alas, people in the know have long lost in the paper that "prints all the news that fits."

Had she also been the last, American workers would get a pay raise of almost $80 billion a year (over 25 per cent of the federal budget is from Social Security taxes), which they could invest in private pension plans to receive three to four times the benefits they will eventually receive when the Federal Government taxes their children and grandchildren to take care of them.

One of our Boot Strappers called this military item to our attention, suggesting that it probably got lost in the flood of other news.

The federal budget calls for a net increase in defense spending of $8 billion, but because most of this is eaten up by manpower costs and inflation, the Russians will still spend more in equivalent dollars in essential areas.

In U. S. prices, Defense Secretary James Schlesinger told the Senate Armed Services Committee recently, the Soviets "now devote more resources than the United States in most of the significant categories of defense. In overall research and development, they outstrip us by 20 per cent; in general purpose forces by 20 per cent; in procurement by 25 per cent; and in nuclear offensive forces by 60 per cent."

What is more, said Schlesinger, "we are now beginning to witness in the Soviet Union the largest initial deployment of improved strategic capabilities in the history of the nuclear competition."

If you can understand history, you can visualize what is ahead -- unless we are prepared and ready.

Crime And Responsibility

The schools, the communications media and the business community should be forced to share legal responsibility for the antisocial and criminal behavior of youth, says a critic.

According to John Lyon, writing in U. S. Catholic magazine, society unfairly forces families to bear the leal burden of responsibility for adolescent behavior "when agencies outside the home have had a decisive role in shaping the character and behavior patterns of youth."

While acknowledging that the chief responsibility is with parents, it is hard to imagine, he says, that "drug use, shoplifting, larceny and felonious behavior would be taught-or learned -in most homes."

From another quarter, two researchers charge that sociologists are suffering from a "person-blame" bias-the tendency to hold individuals -rather than the system, responsible for the individual's problems.

"If we view delinquents as persons who follow extralegal paths to socially valued goals, when the conventionally approved paths are barred to them, we would advocate system-change remedies," says Nathan Caplan and Stephen D. Nelson of the University of Michigan.

There is, of course, a lot of truth in these arguments. Every parent is aware of how much more powerful the influence of outside factors, expecially peer-group pressures, is on their children than values taught at home-if values are taught in the home. And young people who run afoul of the law have in all too many cases know nothing but blame and failure in their lives.

But the trouble with this kind of reasoning is that if the individual is not, as some, point, to be held responsible for his bad behavior, if it is always society's fault, the "system's" fault, then neither is the individual to be praised for his good behavior.

If those who "follow extralegal paths to socially valued goals," are to be held blameless because the legal paths are barred to them, then those who do follow the legal paths can taken no credit for their achievements.

In other words, if it is the "system's" failure in the one case, then logically it should be called the "system's" success in the other.

A not-so-funny thing has been happening on the way to a more perfect society. We hear everything about individual rights, but nothing about individaul responsibilities. Yet crime, delinquence and antisocial behavior grow steadily more prevalent.

In our emphasis on what society owes to individuals and our de-emphasis on what individuals owe society, we actually depreciate the worth of the individual-and what is society but a collection of individuals!? By holding out no high standards, no high expectations, to individuals, we invite the very substandard society we are lamenting.

To be sure, the "system" has much to answer for. We chuck lawbreakers away in prison for varying periods of time, rarely requiring them to make restitution oto their victims-or, indeed, making it possible for them to do so even it they wanted to.

Then we set them loose again and in most states deny ex-cons the exercise of such a basic civic responsibility as the right to vote-a practice which the U.S. Supreme Court itself upheld last year.

And we wonder why "rehabilitation" is so seldom successful.

This problem of crime and delinquency needs much more intelligent effort than it has been getting if it is not to be our undoing. But rather than trying to assess blame, laying it all on the individual on the one hand and all on society on the other, we should begin to recognize that responsibility is a two-way street and begin to demand the best from both individuals and society.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
Marcos Rejects Mercy Plea

By JACK ANDERSON
with
Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — The mother of the Philippines' imprisoned opposition leader, Sen. Benigno S. Aquino Jr., expects her son to die.

She still calls him "Ninoy," his childhood nickname. "My heart is full of anguish," she writes. "We believe Ninoy has no chance ... For freedom, for justice, for truth, he will die."

Her letter was smuggled out of the Philippines and delivered to me by relatives, who appealed to me to intervene with President Ferdinand Marcos to save Aquino's life.

The outspoken, 42-year-old opposition leader has been charged with murder and subversion. He swears the charges were trumped up to stop him from criticizing the Marcos dictatorship.

Marcos used to be my friend before he seized dictatorial powers. When I visited Manila, I would drop by Malacanang, the presidential place, for dinner with him and his wife, Imelda. On my last visit, the lovely Imelda took my wife and daughters on a sightseeing-shopping tour.

Marcos has a quick smile and an easy manner. But a sudden earnestness would overtake him when he spoke about his dream for the Philippines. He would talk about breaking the power of the wealthy oligarchs and freeing his people from economic bondage. He wanted to make the Philippines, he would say, "a country of equals."

It was hard to doubt his sincerity.

Invoking our past friendship, I sent Marcos a personal message through the Philippine embassy. I urged him to free his rival as a humanitarian gesture and let him come to the United States.

I have just received President Marcos' reply. "I wish to thank you," he cabled, "for your kind thoughts and friendly feelings for us conveyed to me through our Philippine ambassador in Washington. I welcome your desire to discuss with me directly the case of former Senator Aquino ... "

But the president, citing the "pending serious charges" against his chief critic, concluded: "It is therefore necessary to allow termination of trial of these cases and related court preceedings."

In my message, I had mentioned the family's fear that Aquino might be executed. Responded Marcos: "It is my hope that you will not listen or give credence to an alleged plot to liquidate former Senator Aquino as mentioned in your cable, for it has no basis in fact."

Then he added a comment, which struck me as ominous. The prosecution has charged that several witnesses against Aquino have been mysteriously murdered. "If he is released," suggested Marcos, "he might be killed by relatives of (the murdered) witnesses."

When a dictator advertises in advance that his chief opponent may be killed by unidentified enemies, it has the smell of a set-up. Aquino, you see, had a perfect alibi; he couldn't have killed the witnesses. He happened to be safely in custody when the witnesses were allegedly done in. Therefore, the vengeful relatives, whom Marcos suggests may now try to kill Aquino, would be waylaying the wrong man.

The witnesses against Aquino are captured guerrillas who have agreed to testify for the state in return for their own freedom. "They go around in flashy cars," Aquino's mother charges in her handwritten letter. "And to think these killers' words have weight against a legislator of the land in his New Society."

She contends that feelers were sent to her son "that if he signs statements endorsing martial law and the New Society, everything will be dropped, he will be released.

"But ... true to his forebears, he can die for his convictions. He believes in the freedom of man and his dignity, and no one can enslave anybody."

In protest, Aquino has gone on a hunger strike. "This hunger strike," writes his mother, "he has mulled this over and over, believing perhaps it will awaken our fearful people.

"I really don't know what to do. As a mother, I am 'sorrowful unto death.' Please do something for us here."

The cable from President Marcos was followed by a detailed memorandum, which the Philippine embassy delivered to my office. "The government has afforded full protection to the rights of the accused," it states. "All the requirements of due process have been observed in the investigation, filing and hearing of the serious charges against (Aquino)...

"It should be emphasized that the charges were filed only after a very thorough investigation and evaluation of the evidence and after the finding of prima facie evidence supportive of the charges and specifications."

I cannot forget the Ferdinand Marcos used to talk to me about freedom, democracy and equality. There is decency and compassion in him. Perhaps it isn't too late. These human qualities may yet prevail and Aurora Aquino's son may be saved.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Inside White House:
Hard-Hat Time
In the Cabinet Room

WASHINGTON - It was hard-hat hour in the White House cabinet room last Tuesday afternoon. For the 17 powerful construction union chiefs there, it was mini-mini-rally for work and bread for their one million jobless followers. For Jerry Ford, one insider saw it as the first, albeit minuscule, presidential mobilization of forces for the '76 campaign.

Fact is that these leaders of some 3.5 million AFL-CIO hard hats got a little black coffee and lots of sympathy. They had come with a packet of demands at about five p.m., after lobbying the Hill all day in one of the most intensive pressuring drives ever to hit Congress by men who are perfectionists in low profiles.

And not the least of the lobbyits (though he didn't join them in the cabinet room) was their chief of chiefs, construction - oriented George Meany. He told a House Public Works Committee this nation could, and should, "take a $100 billion deficit." That would make jobs. Especially said he, if those "damned environmentalists" stopped interfering.

Then he went down the Hill. And later the general presidents went over to sit with Jerry Ford, Housing and Urban Development's Carla Hills, Office of Management and Budget's Jim Lynn, who has been wooing a labor leader or two; Labor Secretary John Dunlop, energy chief Frank Zarb and some staffers.

And the backslapping, gung ho, first- name- calling Vice President, Nelson A. Rockefeller.

The hard hats' packet of demands what you'd expect -- requests for release of impounded billions, sparking of new construction, building of 130 power plants and ouster of illega aliens -- the whole bit, which they said would trigger recovery.

As they went around the big table, Mr. Ford listened and responded to each labor leader. In effect, he said, the steps have been taken to beat back the recession. And he was worried about what this would do to inflation.

He was quiet, in sharp contrast to the ebullience of his Vice President. No longer was Jerry Ford the amateur. He knew his people -- and some by first name.. He nodded when they said they were builders, not destroyers.

Hovering over all this intense economic discussion were subtle political innuendos. If Jerry Ford does run, he believes he can count on those labor chiefs around that cabinet table to support him. A powerful national machine, theirs. They've some 10,000 locals; 399 city central organizations and 33 AFL-CIO state Building and Construction Trades Councils. One of their unions, the carpenters, has a million members.

Despite all this, the 17 powerful labor chiefs had difficulty getting in -- though they had the conference all set up. Somebody had dis-geared the old White House.

In Dick Nixon's day, one call and he'd have met them at the portico. It took a Building and Construction Trades Department official six calls to the White House just to learn whom to call to learn what gates to use and who would clear them. And at 2:30 p.m. they were told, don't bring photographers. And so there were no individual shots taken of each union general president standing shaking hands with the President of the U. S. It was amateur afternoon at the White House.

But not in the cabinet room. Youngish construction department president Robert Georgine said, in effect, we are the kind of people who like to work out problems and persuade people; we are not given to big outdoor demonstrations; we are here to work things out, thanks for seeing us.

Responded the President -- "I understand that and I am delighted to see you. I know you are not that kind of people. So I have all afternoon."

They did stay 75 minutes.

Georgine's reference was to the April 26 outdoor marches and Kennedy stadium mass demonstration sponsored by the AFL-CIO's Industrial Union Department led by big steel labor's I.W. (Abe) Abel. The militants had this one organized long ago. For weeks the participants' labor press has been roaring against "Ford's recession."

Meany had sent them word that he was not yet ready to "man the barricades." And that he would not speak. Thus, to be evenhanded, labor's own Mr. Stonewall regretfully also passed up, for the first time in memory, a chance to talk to the 3,000 construction workers' officials who rallied in the Washington Hilton on Monday (April 21) and went up the Hill in fleets of buses on Tuesday.

Politics is the art of hanging loose as long as possible. And in this, Meany is a crafty artisan. He and his construction workers are neutral -- now. But for whom they'll be neutral next year is another thing.

It is worth noting that the construction trades chiefs, who went Republican last time, talked the recession over quietly inside the cabinet room -- instead of ripping Jerry Ford over the rock-him-and- roll him outdoor mikes.

This week was prologue.

New waste disposal compliance deadline

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Senate Tuesday moved toward taking the teeth out of a 1972 waste disposal law by removing most counties from its requirements and setting back the law's compliance deadline.

The Senate also took up consideration of a bill outlawing certain types of billboards while the House turned back a measure to curb harassing debt collectin practices, but tentatively approve a compensation boost for jurors.

The controversial 1972 waste law, which required each county and city to submit garbage disposal plans to the state by last June 30, would be changed under the bill sponsored by Sen. Robert Young, D-St. Ann, to have a plan deadline of Jan. 1, 1976. Most counties missed the original deadline.

Before Young's bill was tentatively approved, however, an amendment was added to exempt all but St. Louis and Jackson counties from its provisions as well as all towns with less than 500 population.

The change was offered by Se,. Emory Melton, R-Cassville, who said the law has been driving private trash haulers out of business while providing more jobs for state bureaucrats.

But Young said Melton's amendment puts Missouri back in the same situation it was in before the law was passed and suggested people will probably start dumping garbage in the counties again.

Sen. William Waters, D-Liberty, said Melton's amendment, which passed 17-14, takes the law from "one extreme to the other."

The bill still faces final Senate passage before being sent to the House.

The billboard measure, also sponsored by Young, is aimed at preventing about $11 million in federal funds from being withdrawn from state highway funds because Missouri does not meet federal billboard standards.

The bill would outlaw billboards erected more than 660 feet from highways in sight of motorists. But the signs still would be allowed in cities larger than 5,000 and in rural areas that are commercially zoned.

The debt collection bill defeated in the House prohibits debt collectors from using profane or obscene language, misrepresenting themselves, making threats, crating unneccessary expenses or otherwise harassing consumers.

Before the bill was defeated by a 68-73 vote, it was amended to exempt debts on real property from the limitations.

Rep. James Riley, D-Richmond Heights, the measure's sponsor who said he will seek to have the bill reconsidered, charged that the bill was defeated by House members because "too many of them are in small business or own property."

The juror compensation bill, which still faces final House passage before going to the Senate, requires employers to make up the difference of a jurors' regular pay and the $6 per day compensation he receives while on jury duty. The employer payment could be used as a tax credit.

Chapter women honored

Girls of the Year named at banquet

Four local chapters of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority each chose their Girl of the Year Tuesday at a founder's day banquet in the Ramada Inn, celebrating the sorority's 44th anniversary.

The Girl of the Year award is based on extraordinary service within the chapter and each chapter votes for its choice.

Tau Chapter selected Delores Comer, 318 Virginia St., as its Girl of the Year. She is presently the chapter president and has held the positions of vice president and corresponding secretary.

In addition, she has held about 10 offices in the Order of the Eastern Star, including matron, is vice president of the Hiway Wives, treasurer of the First United Methodist Church and secretary of the Heritage House Board of Directors and Nutrition Board.

She works part-time at the Heritage House and is a volunteer worker for Southeast Missouri Transporation System.

Mrs. Comer enjoys being a club member because "it gives me an opportunity to serve others, meet other women in the community and broaden my outlook on life."

She is the wife of Guy B. Comer. They have two children, Greg, 28 and Geoffrey, 23.

From Xi Zeta Alpha Chapter, Mary Ann Maevers, 922 Hawthorne Drive, was chosen. She is presently chapter vice president and was recording and corresponding secretary and membership and publicity chairwoman.

Mrs. Maevers feels the award is a worthy one because "it is an added incentive for each member to work harder during the year."

She is the wife of Arlen L. Maevers and they have two children, Sheri, 17 and Ellen, 16.

Mrs. Maevers has a bachelor of science and masters degrees in elementary education from Southeast Missouri State University at Cape Girardeau. She teaches at Southwest Elementary School.

In addition, she is a member of the Daughters of Isabella and the ladies' softball team and a past president and vice president of the Community Teachers Association and a past president of Southwest District Elementary Teachers.

For the second time, Dorothy Scott, 1030 N. Kingshighway, has been selected Girl of the Year. She is a member of Xi Epsilon Zeta Chapter and is its program chairwoman, librarian and photographer.

Her other awards include Woman of Achievement from the Business & Professional Women's Club and the Harvest Award from the Women's Committee of the Sikeston Chamber of Commerce.

Past positions in Xi Epsilon Zeta are as president, secretary, treasurer, director and chairwoman of numerous committees. She is a charter member of Tau Chapter and also a charter member and co-organizer of Xi Epsilon Zeta.

Mrs. Scott is a private secretary and assistant to her husband, R. Clint Scott, in his business, Scott Office Equipment. The couple have two children. Mrs. Joseph Bilbrey of Granite City, Ill., and Don F. Scott of Webster Groves.

She attended the American Institute of Banking at St. Louis for four years, Rubicam Business College at St. Louis for two years and has taken numerous college level courses.

Other community work includes volunteer work at the Easter Seal Home Craft Shop, an office worker for the Foster Grandparent Program, a part-time volunteer for he Red Cross and has been a Sunday School teacher for 26 years at the First United Methodist Church.

She is a member of the Sew and Chat Club and the advisory board of the Foster Grandparent Program. She has been a past president, secretary and treasurer of the B P&W Club but currently is recording secretary and publicity chairwoman of the Woman's Club.

She finds her club work "challenging and an opportunity to use and expand one's own talent."

As a two-time winner of the Girl of the Year Award, she says "is a tremendous honor as there are many enthusiastic, hard-working girls in our chapter."

Margaret R. Lambert, 913 Daviws Blvd., was "very, very pleased and deeply flattered that my friends and chapter sisters would consider me worthy for such a tribute."

That tribute is Girl of the Year of Delta Gamma Chapter. Mrs. Lambert is presently its president.

Her past chapter positions include treasurer, social, program and publicity chairwoman. In the community, she has been a Girl Scout leader and is a member of Lee Hunter Elementary Parent-Teachers Association and the First Christian Church.

She joined the chapter because "it means valuable friendships and a chance to give myself in meaningful service projects as well as social and cultural activities."

She and her husband, Tom, are the parents of Julie, 7 and Alison, 2½. In addition, she manages Lamberts Apartments and has attended SeMo State University.

Why is the Girl of the Year Award special? "Because to win this award, you really have to work."

New fabrics:

Polyesters prove versatile

By JEWEL GRADY

Polyester is probably the most versatile fiber with the fewest limitations in end use of all the manmade fibers.

It was made available to U.S. consumers in small quantitites in 1951. It came into widespread use in 1953 and since that time it has become one of the most desirable and used synthetic fibers.

Polyester employs its talents in a great variety of fabrics for apparel and home furnishings, fillings for ski jackets, robes, bedspreads and wherever resilience and soft, fluffy, lightweight warmth are wanted. Floor covering such as polyester fiber carpets are another major use of the fiber.

CHARACTERISTICS OF POLYESTER:

Resilient -- resists wrinkling and has good recovery if wrinkles occur.

Shape retentative-- fabrics resist stretching or sagging even in moist weather.

Aesthetically pleasing -- can vary from silk-like to worsted-like fabric.

Washable

Low moisture absorbancy - - quick drying, resistant to water stains. Uncomfortable to some people because of low absorbancy.

Electrostatic -- attracts lint unless treated with an antistatic finish or fabric softener.

Care of polyester:

Hang tags and labels containing care instructions are usually included with garments and should be followed.

For articles which can be laundered the following general procedure is recommended:

...Pretreat heavily soiled area by scrubbing with detergent and soft brush.

...Launder whites separately.

...Use warm water (hot water sets wrinkles in spinning), detergent plus fabric softener in final rinse.

...Dry at low setting in a tumble dry (removing as soon as dry) or hang wet garment to drip dry.

...If pressing is necessary, use steam or dry at rayon, synthetic or wash-and-wear setting.

Sewing Hints:

1. Tension -- In most cases it is necessary to use a loose yet well balanced tension.

2. Thread -- Polyester thread is stronger and gives with fabric. Thread won't shrink when laundered, causing less puckered seams.

3. Needles -- Ballpoint needles have been designed for use with synthetic fibers or select a sharp new needle, size 11.

4. Sewing polyester knit -- For extra stretch on a zig-zag machine, use a narrow zig-zag stitch. On straight- stitching machines, adjust the tension and stitch length to handle the knit.

5. Join pieces of fabric -- if the top piece of fabric comes out longer when the seam has been stitched,the pressure of the presser foot on the fabric is probably too heavy and needs to be decreased.

6. Stitch length -- This varies with the polyester fabric. The recommended range is between 8 to 12 stitches per inch.

Ann Landers

List provides happy marriage rules

Dear Ann Landers: A long while back you printed some Rules For a Happy Married Life. We moved recently and I lost that column. Will you please run it again? I want to have it hand-printed by a professional and give it to my son and his wife for their first anniversary. Thank you, Ann.--Louisiana Booster

Dear Booster: Here it is--and thanks for asking.

Rules for A Happy Married Life

1. Never both be angry at once.

2. Never yell at each other unless the house is on fire.

3. Yield to the wishes of the other as an exercise in self-discipline if you can't think of a better reason.

4. If you have a choice between making yourself look good or your mate--choose your mate.

5. If you have any criticism, make it lovingly.

6. Never bring up a mistake of the past.

7. Neglect the whole world rather than each other.

8. Never let the day end without saying at least one complimentary thing to your life's partner.

9. Never meet without an affectionate welcome.

10. Never go to bed mad.

11. When you've made a mistake, talk it out and ask for forgiveness.

12. Remember, it takes two to make an argument. The one who is wrong is the one who will be doing most of the talking.

Dear Ann Landers: Here's a suggestion for "Desperate Wife" whose husband considers himself a "controlled alcoholic" and continues to drink. Having been married to one, I know what a distorted image those people have of themselves. They are in no position to evaluate their behavior--nor do they have the faintest notion of how they come acoss to others.

I hope "Desperate Wife" will rent or borrow a tape recorder and turn it on when her "controlled alcoholic" becomes sarcastic and argumentative. When he is sober she can then play it back to him. Maybe THEN he'll get the message.--Been In Her Boots

Dear Boots: Thanks for a good suggestion. It might make the difference. Let's hope so.

Dear Ann Landers: Please print this Open Letter To All Women's Libbers. It's time somebody spoke up.

There are approximately 109 million women in the United States. Some of them MUST be traditionalists.

I am incensed because of the discrimation against the housewife. The woman who handles a job at an office as well as one at home is viewed as Super-Dame. If she is "only" a housewife and mother, she is made to feel that somehow she is inferior, lazy or copping out.

If a woman wishes to choose a job at home, let her be allowed to do so with pride, not shame or a feeling of inadequacy. There are plenty of rewards in being a good wife and the mother of three children. I don't want an outside job. So please, Libbers, leave me alone.-- Content With My Lot

Dear C.: Thanks for your letter. I've had several from others who said the same thing, but you said it best.

There is a big difference between cold and cool. Ann Landers shows you how to play it cool without freezing people out in her booklet, "Tenn-Age-Sex--Ten Ways to Cool It."

Businesswomen hired to meet company quotas

BOSTON (AP) — Women graduating from Harvard Business School this year say they expect to get good jobs but many are worried about discrimination despite the quotas of women and minorities that some companies indicate they seek.

"There is a myth going around that if you're a woman here you don't have any problems," said Judy Cronin, one of the 87 women students in the school's class of 802. "But when the offers are in and the money is on the table, I'll be surprised if the women do as well as the men."

She said she believes because of the recession companies can't afford to consider quotas.

"Everyone needs the most capable people these days," she said. "If the ones they hire happen to be from governmentally required groups, then they are even more delighted."

Despite the current recession, there doesn't appear to be any reduction in the number of recruiters from industry on campus.

But the women students are wary of being hired as part of a quota need rather than because they are qualified.

"They are often not very tactful,"' said Elyse Gansfried. "Some interviewers make it very obvious that they have quota to fill."

Marsha Allen, a first year student who is black, is looking for summer work in marketing. "Often the companies come right out and say, 'We are looking for women and minorities, but your qualifications make you attractive even without those other factors,'" she said. "But it is really hard to tell they are being sincere. The only way to know is just to go to work for them and see."

The women students said they are very conscious of the possibility they might be hired by a company which has not come around to the idea of women executives yet.

"I don't want to enter a company where there is a chance that my career will be stifled because someone above me cannot deal with women managers," said Madelaine Pfau.

She said she has been looking for jobs in heavy industry in the Southwest.

Whether the weather is ready for spring or not, you are, so put some springy notes into menus. For dinner tonight, serve eggs goldenrod with a lunchmeat platter, and succulent spears of new asparagus.

Cooking Up

By CHERIE BLANTON

Oh boy, it looks like summer is finally on it's way and none too soon as far as I'm concerned. One thing that is always attractive to me when hot weathr arrives is a good salad. So, today I'm going to give you four that sound delicious to me.

Here is a cranberry salad from the Mecklem sisters of New Madrid and their fame as good cooks is known far and wide.

CRANBERRY SALAD

Grind 1 pound of cranberries, 2 oranges and one lemon

Mix with:

1½ cups of sugar
1 cup chopped pecans
1 tsp. salt
1 cup chopped celery

Add 1 package lemon jello, mix well and refrigerate.

Like a salad that is a little tart and refreshing?

OLIVE SALAD

Mix one package of lemon jello in one cup boiling water, then one cup cold water Add:

½ cup chopped pecans
½ jar sliced stuffed olives, (small jar)
½ cup diced celery
½ cup white grapes

Refrigerate.

Barbara Hambrick is always giving me great recipes and here is her last salad she gave me.

BARBARA'S SALAD

Cream together:

1-8 ounce package cream cheese
2 Tbsp. mayonnaise
2 Tbsp. pineapple juice

Add:

2 cups grapes
1 cup crushed drained pineapple
1½ cups miniature marshmallows

Mix and add a small carton of cool whip and refrigerate.

Are you a fan of oranges with their refreshing flavor?

DUMP SALAD

Dump together, mix and refrigerate:

1-8 ounce package creamed cottage cheese
1 package pineapple, orange jello
1 can mandarin oranges (do not drain)
1 cup pineapple chunks, drain
2 cups cool whip

If you are strictly a tossed salad eater, here is an excellent new dressing I tried out the other night.

CREAMY FRENCH

Mix and serve on lettuce (the more goodies you throw in like croutons, etc. the better your salads will be).

¼ cup corn oil
¾ cup real mayonnaise
¼ cup red wine
1½ Tbsp. sugar
1 Tbsp. paprika
1 Tbsp dry mustard
¾ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. garlic salt

Cold cream study points out similarity

Do you know the difference between a lubricating cream, a moisturizer, a conditioning cream, a dry skin cream anda night cream?

According to a book of questions and answers prepared in consultation with members of the American Medical Association's committee on cutaneous health and cosmetics, all of these products are basically identical. The difference is in the physical characteristics of each. And, surprisingly, most are essentially variations of the basic cold cream formula modified to provide emollient instead of cleansing effects.

A moisturizing cream that is intended for day-time use and under make-up is likely to have a consistency that is lightweight and nongreasy. "The primary purpose of an emollient is to prevent or counteract the symptoms and signs of dryness of the skin and thus smooth and soften the skin," it is noted.

However, "it is now known that neither externally applied oils nor the skin's natural oils can keep the skin soft and flexible without the aid of water."

Modern types of skin cleansers now come in liquid form, and contain a number of emollients to soften and protect the skin, and are used with warm or cold water. These kinds of modern skin cleansers have also been formulated to cleanse skin thoroughly and to easily remove popular cosmetics and the residue of air pollutants.

To May Good Friends of Sikeston

I certainly appreciate the unexpected and most welcome honor that I received Thursday night, April 24, as Sikeston Chamber of Commerce MAN OF THE YEAR.

On behalf of myself and my family, I want to thank all my friends from the bottom of my heart, for their expressions and congratulations, and to say that without the support and spirit of the good people of Sikeston, none of this could be possible.

For a better Sikeston to enjoy and raise our families, I am

Player Periscope's first report on Southeast Missouri's minor league baseball players shows the pitchers struggling and Gary Blaylock of Malden leading the California Class A league in home runs and runs battled in.

Blaylock, who sat out most of last season after suffering an injury, is back in action for the Visalia, Calif. Mets and is batting .241 with seven hits in 29 times at bat, including a double three home runs and nine RBI's.

Mark Littell of Gideon is the only pitcher to have performed respectably so far in the young campaign. The fireballing righthander is also attempting to make a comeback after an injury last season.

Littell, playing for the Omaha Royals in the Class AAA American Association has lost his only game, working nine innings, allowing six hits and four walks while fanning three. His earned run mark stands at a 3.00.

Puxico's Galen McSpadden, playing for the Padres Reno, Nev., class A club has worked one inning and allowed two hits while fashioning a 9.00 ERA.

Randy Smith of Arbyrd is playing in the Texas class AA league for the El Paso Angels. After 12 innings of work, the lefty has allowed 15 hits and three walks while fanning nine. He has a 6.75 ERA.

While on the subject of baseball, we understand that Rick Eisenbach has won himself a starting position on Southeast Missouri State University's baseball team. He has sat the bench most of the season and was finally given a chance during the closing weeks of the campaign. We're glad that he's gotten a chance to show his skills.

A little league baseball meeting will be held Thursday at the Sikeston field house, beginning at 7 p.m. All managers and coaches are urged to turn in their old uniforms at that time.

TURKEY FACTS

Missouri hunters have bagged about 3,400 wild turkeys in the first seven days of the two week spring season.

The largest number of birds have been shot in Ste. Genevieve County with 194. Other leading counties are Texas with 174, Crawford 147, Washington 146, Dent 133, Adair 127 and Howell 100.

Only bearded birds are in season, which runs through May 4.

The largest turkey recorded was a 22½ pound gobbler downed in Cole County by Celo Scheperle, Russellville.

TENT CAMPING

If you've always wanted to go tent camping, but didn't know the difference between a tent pole and a tent stake, the Missouri State Park system has a special program just for you. Now in its second year, the state parks' "Learn to Camp" program is designed to introduce Missouri families to tent camping with a maximum of enjoyment and a minimum of mistakes. And its won't cost you a fortune!

In cooperation with the Wenzel Corporation, the Missouri Department of Natural Resources, Division of Parks and Recreation will provide tents, dining canopies, cots, lanterns, camp stoves, and cooking grates. Also, an experienced camp programmer will teach you how to put up a tent, how to cook outdoors, and other camping skills.

"Learn to Camp" sessions will run for 10 weeks from June 9 to August 15. Each session will last 3 days and 2 nights from Monday to Wednesday or Wednesday to Friday. Each family must provide their own personal supplies and food. Lists of recommended supplies and groceries will be mailed to participants when reservations are received.

This year's program will be offered at three parks: Washington State Park, 55 miles south of St. Louis on Missouri 21; Wallace State Park, 50 miles north of Kansas City east of Interstate 35; and Pomme de Terre State Park, 60 miles north of Springfield west of U.S. 65.

Cost to each family willl be minimal, based on $3 per night for the regular campsite fee, plus a $3 program fee. Total cost is $9 per family for the entire session. The park superintendent will collect the regular campsite fee each evening at the campsite. The $3 program fee should accompany your reservation form.

For additional information and reservations forms, write: "Learn to Camp," Division of Parks and Recreation, P. O. Box 176, Jefferson City, Mo. 65101.

I-SC beats Bears

Rick Sample fashioned a two hitter, striking out nine Greenville Bears on the way to a 7-1 victory in opening round action of the class A district playoffs at Illmo-Scott City Monday afternoon.

Coach Bill Wilthong's Rams jumped out to a 3-0 lead in the second as Ray Campbell connected for a three run homer. Steve Hanschen doubled home a pair of runs in the fifth when the team scored four more runs after Greenville had closed the margin to 3-1 with a single tally in the third. I-SC collected nine hits on the afternoon.

The victory was the seventh in nine games this season for the Rams and it was the fourth without a defeat for right handed Sample.

I-SC entertains Chaffee in regular season play this afternoon and resumes district playoff action Thursday against Meadow Heights.

FOOTBALL

MONTREAL — Ed George, the Canadian Football League's offensive lineman of the year in 1974, was acquired from the Montreal Alouettes by the Baltimore Colts of the National Football League.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Bob Maddox, reserve lineman for the Cincinnati Bengals of the National Football League, had charges of assault and battery dropped against him Tuesday at the request of a 22-year-old television camerawoman who claimed Maddox shovd a heavy camera into her face.

Maddox, 25, is awaiting trial on chages of possession for sale of a hallucinogen. He was arrested March 12 at his apartment during a raid. Police said Maddox and a friend were bottling hashish for street sale.

Joanne Easley of WKRC-TV said she was filming Maddox at a court appearance when the 6-foot-5, 240-pound defensive end pushed her camera, injuring her eye.

Maddox signed a statement saying he apologized for the accident, but was not admitting to assault and battery charges.

The Bengals said they planned no action until the case is settled.

Baseball's untouchables

NEW YORK (AP) — As baseball, a game predicated on statistics, prepared to memorialize its one millionth run, someone raised the subject of the game's unassailable records.

Are there any marks now in the book out of reach of mortal man?

"To my mind," said Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, "the most remarkable record is Lou Gehrig's feat of playing in 2,130 consecutive games. I can't see anyone ever overtaking that."

Stan Musial, the St. Louis Cardinal Hall of Famer, nodded his head in half-way agreement and then entered a mild demurral.

"It would be tough," Musial said, "but, speaking as a hitter, I think the one mark farthest from anyone's hands is the 56-consecutive game hitting streak of Joe DiMaggio."

Ralph Branca, the former Brooklyn Dodger who served up that historic home run ball to Bobby Thomson of the Giants that decided the 1951 National League pennant, had other views.

"It is inconceivable to me," said Branca, "that any pitcher will ever win 511 games, as Cy Young did. Think of it. That would be the equivalent of averaging 25 victories a year for 20 years."

The three well-known baseball personalities all were principal figures in the establishment Tuesday of a Manhattan control center to keep count of major league runs scored in the next week until run No 1,000,000 crosses the plate.

The setup is similar to the control center for a moon snot with telephones hooked into every ball park and a clock which can stop time at 1-1,000th of a second.

When the historic run crosses the plate — sometime, somewhere — there will be a great celebration with prizes and all that other Madison Avenue razzmatazz. When the center was christened — with bloody Marys and half-sandwiches instead of champagne — the magic number was 444 away.

At one time, Babe Ruth's records of 60 home runs a season and 714 for a career were believed among the untouchable records. But Roger Maris of the New York Yankees came along to erase the first, with the aid of an asterisk, and Hank Aaron last year crushed the second.

Aaron subsequently has gone on to destroy other cherished records, such as most games (3,076 through 1974), most at bats (11,628), total bases (6,591) and runs batted in (2,209).

"If I had to rate the most inaccessible records in order," Kuhn said, "they would be Gehrig's string, DiMaggio's consecuive hits and then a tie between Young's 511 pitching victories and Hack Wilson's 190 runs batted in for a season.

"It's hard to visualize a modern pitcher winning 511 games but the trend toward designated hitters and more use of relief pitchers may make it possible. Night games, travel and other pressures pose a barrier to the Gehrig and DiMaggio marks."

Nine graduate in repair course

Do-it-yourselfers get certificates

PORTAGEVILLE--Eight do-it-yourself women mechanics graduated April 17 from a Course in Automobile Repair and Safety (CARS) conducted Hayes Ford Sales.

Highway patrol Sgt. Bill Darnell spoke on the importance of highway safety during graduation ceremonies at the dealership. Ed Flowers, course instructor and dealership service manger, presented a diploma to each women.

Members of the graduating class were Doris Adams, Karen Burks, Judy Dixon, Betty Ellington, Nora Flowers, Thelma Harmon, Elsie Hughey and Nina Kimes.

The five-week course, sponsored by Bill Hayes Ford Sales and Ford Customer Service Division, included a review of a car's basic operating components and instruction on how to diagnose typical auto problems and cope with emergency road situations.

The women worked on demonstration vehicles in the dealership's service department following each class session. "Hands'on" lab work included changing ties, engine tune-ups and checking emissions control systems.

"While the program wasn't intended to turn out professional techinicians, I believe it has succeeded in providng the women with a more thorough understanding of their cars and vehicle maintenance requirements" Flowers said. "Based on their favorable comments, we hope to hold similar courses in the future."

Power company suffers net loss

BLYTHEVILLE, Ark.--Arkansas -Missouri Power Company's "1974 Annual Report" has just been released, and the document shows that the Blytheville-based utility suffered a 31.4 per cent loss in [illegible] last year.

[illegible]mpany registered increases in customers, electric sales , and gas and electric operating revenues, but the increases were offset by increased operating expenses.

As a result, net income dropped from $1,633,213 in 1973 to $1,121,170 in '74...a 31.4 per cent loss.

Electric sales were up one per cent, due in part to a 1.9 per cent increase in customers. But kilowatt-hour sales per residential customer declined 1.1 percent, caused by "extremely mild weather and emphasis on conservation," the report says.

Electric revenues from ultimate consumers (which excludes sales for resale) were up 9.1 per cent. Gas operating revenues increased half a per cent.

The report notes that "approximately 10 per cent" of the increase in revenue reflected increased fuel costs. That amount of their revenues, the report says, was simply collected from customers and paid to fuel suppliers.

The cost of natural gas purchase was up 6.1 per cent over 1973. The cost of electric power was up 40.6 per cent during the same period.

Maintenance expenditures and provisions for depreciation were up 11.3 per cent. Total payroll was up 5.9 per cent over '73. Taxes, including state, local and federal taxes, exceeded the firm's net income by $744,201.

The report highlighted one of Ark-Mo's major accomplishments during 1974, the completion of a 188,000 -kilowatt "peaking plant" at Blytheville.

"For the first time in the company's history," the report says, "we have the capability, through generation and long term contracts, of providing our total electric reqirements. Our customers have never been lacking for electrical energy, and we are planning so they will never."

In that regard, the annual report comments that, "The company's construction program contemplates expenditures of approximately $6,800,000 in 1975."

Ark-Mo and its subsidiary, Associated Natural Gas Company, served 118,625 natural gas and electric customers in 1[illegible] communities primarily in Northeast Arkansas and Southeast Missouri last year, according to the report.

Ford company man retires after 50 years

CAPE GIRARDEAU--Ralph Williams, formerly of Sikeston, has retired after 50 years of selling Ford Motor Co. products in this area.

In 1940, Herbert Walton and Williams purchased the J. William Folley Ford Agency in Sikeston. Walton had been a Ford salesman for several years in Sikeston and Williams had been a Ford salesman for 15 years for Fred A. Groves Motor Co. in Cape Girardeau. Williams remained a Ford dealer in Sikeston for 25 years before selling out to the present Ford agency, Sikeston Motor Co.

He moved back to Cape Girardeau in 1965 and, until retiring this month, had been selling for the Fred A. Groves Motor Co.

Williams says he plans to do a lot of traveling in his retirement.

Doctor meets requirements for membership in academy

Dr. Roy Thomas Waltrip, Jr., 309 Salcedo, has completed continuing education requirements to retain active membership in the American Academy of Family Physicians, the national association of family doctors. The academy formerly was called the American Academy of General Practice.

The requirements call for members to complete a minimum of 150 hours of accredited continuing medical study every three years. Members become eligible for reelection at the end of following their election to membership. The academy, the country's second largest national medical association, is the only national medical group that requires members to keep up with medical progress through continuing education.

The academy, founded in 1947 and headquartered in Kansas City, Mo., was instrumental in the establishment of a new primary specialty in family practice in 1969. The new specialty is expected to increase the numbers of family physicians available to serve the public in the future. The Academy's continuing education program is the foundation of eligibility for family doctors now in practice who apply for certification in the new speciality.

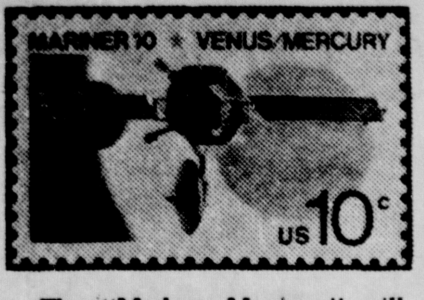
Stamps In The News

AP Newsfeatures

By SYD KRONISH



The "Modern Mariner" will be honored by the U.S. on a new 10-cent commemorative stamp.

The Mariner 10 unmanned spacecraft, which visited Venus and Mercury in 1974, is the main design of the new commemorative stamp to be issued on April 4 at Pasadena, Calif., site of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory of the California Institute of Technology. Cal Tech manages the Mariner program.

The stamp shows the Mariner in the foreground, with Venus and Mercury in the background. Across the top of the stamp are "Mariner 10" and "Venus-Mercury" separated by a red star. "U.S. 10 cents" is at the lower right.

In the 1974 "two-for-one" planetary mission, Mariner 10 swept by Venus while taking man's first closeup pictures and then went to Mercury, also getting closeup shots of the tiny planet nearest the sun. Much valuable scientific information was obtained during these flights which NASA hailed as a giant step forward in space exploration.

First-day cancellation requests for this stamp may be sent to: "Mariner Stamp, Postmaster, Pasadena, Calif. 91109." Ten cents per stamp (in money order, no cash) must be enclosed and requests postmarked no later than April 4.

Former President Harry S Truman appears on a new commemorative stamp issued by Israel.

Hailed as a faithful friend of that little nation, Truman announced de facto recognition of Israel within 11 minutes of its establishment on May 14, 1948. In Israel his name has been perpetuated in the village of Kfar Truman, founded in 1949, and in the Harry S Truman Center for the Advancement of Peace on the campus of the Hebrew University in Jerusalem.

Also issued by Israel was a set of three new stamps added to its Architecture Series, according to the Israel Philatelic Agency in America. The stamps depict examples of various buildings of outstanding architectural and artistic value which have been erected since 1948.

The Truman stamp and the architecture set are available at your local dealer.

The U.S. Postal Service has announced a convenient way for collectors to receive first-day cancellations automatically for each new U.S. stamp.

Souvenir pages are being offered by subscription directly from the U.S. Postal Service's Philatelic Sales Division in Washington. Each new stamp or combination of stamps, is mounted on an 8 by 10½ page suitable for framing or insertion in an album. A first-day cancellation is then affixed to the page which also has philatelic data and other information about the stamp and the stamp subject.

Hurricane Camille, which smashed Mississippi Gulf Coast communities in 1969, packed winds exceeding 200 miles an hour and tides surging 24 feet above mean sea level. The most intense storm to hit North America in modern times, it leveled entire towns on the low-lying coast. Property damage reached $1.42 billion — a record for a single hurricane.

He said the fencing installed on Burger's land was paid for by the levee board, but that it saves the taxpayers about $600 to $700 since he mows the ground himself.

Each section of the levee is leased to persons who use it for pasture or to farm, Moore said. The levee board's job is to see that requirements of the U.S. Corps of Engineers are met, maintain the levee and save the taxpayers as much money as possible.

Only land which could be affected by flooding is taxed to support the levee district, he said. The Corps of Engineers requires the district to have only a maintenance road atop the levee, and not a public road.

"Some think this is a public road," Moore said of the road leading into Commerce, "but this takes a lot of money. The levee board doesn't have the money. If the County Court wants to put gravel on the road, then it's not our problem."

He said, however, that he understood the county has not maintained the road for the last couple of years. "This puts us in a bind because we just don't have the money to maintain it," he said.

Wayne Diamond, county highway engineer, told the court Monday that despite reports to the contrary, the county has been maintianing the road. He said the road was graded less than a month ago.

"I don't know if it's a public road or not," Moore said. "If the County Court says it's a public road, then I guess it's a public road."

AIRLINE LOOKING FOR DOPE SMUGGLERS

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — East African Airways, the airline jointly operated by Kenya, Uganda and Tanzania, has launched a crackdown on employes involved in smuggling of narcotics.

Several airline employes have been charged in recent months with smuggling marijuana from Kenya to Britain.

The airline's director-general, Col. G. W. Toko, of Uganda, has asked associations representing flight crew and cabin staff for their assistance in reporting any of their members suspected of being involved in drug trafficking.

Students get No. 1 rating

Four Sikeston High School students received No. 1 ratings at the state music festival Friday and Saturday in Columbia.

Receiving the top ratings were Greg Danner, for a French horn solo; Kevin Heuiser, baritone saxophone solo; Jan Teague, French hornsolo; and Carolyn Dupont, harp solo. Miss Teague and Danner were accompanied by Kirk Durbin, and Heuiser was accompanied by Melissa Nelson.

Sikeston students who received No. 2 ratings in the state contest were Jay Lopp, trumpet solo; Andrea Harber, piano solo; and a flute trio composed of Kathy Cope, Laura Noyes and Tera Williams. Lopp was accompanied by Miss Harber.

Bryan Crites received a No. 3 rating for a snare drum solo.

A total of 329 high schools, represented by about 5,350 students, took part in the Missouri State High School Activities Association festival on the University of Missouri campus.

Civil defense meeting planned

DEXTER — The Southeast Missouri Civil Defense Association will meet at 2:30 p.m. Sunday in the city administration building.

A highlight of the meeting will be distribution of the first edition of "Resources and Communications Manual", a project of the association since its organization last summer. Copies of the manual will be distributed to all mayors, presiding judges and civil defense directors in the Southeast Missouri area.

According to Lloyd Miler of Poplar Bluff, president of the association, the manual is the only one of its kind in the state and its purpose is to permit city an county officials to become familiar with resources available in Southeast Missouri in the event a disaster should occur.

The cost of printing the manual came from contributions from Southeast Missouri cities and counties.

Special guests at the tmeeting will be Carl Carson and Dick Gibb of Merriam, Kan., representatives of Federal Sign and Signal Corp. They will present a program on how a storm warning system operates.

Anyone interested in disaster planning and civil defense work may attend.

Ordinance is passed

CANALOU--An ordinance requiring dogs to be chained or penned was adopted at Tuesday night's meeting of Board of Aldermen.

The ordinance provides for a $7.50 fine if dogs are found running loose. Any person found guilty of abandoning a dog in or about the city limits is subject to a $50 fine under provisions of the new ordinance.

The deadline for having the dogs penned or chained is May 10.

Tornadoes kill 5 persons

The Associated Press

Tornadoes killed five persons and injured at least 17 as thunderstorms rumbled through the South today churning out a rash of twisters.

Heavy thunderstorms during the night left many sections of Vicksburg, Miss., and Alexandria, La., without electrical power. Tornado watches were in effect in the predawn hours in parts of Oklahoma, Texas, Arkansas, Missouri and Louisiana.

Eighteen tornadoes spun out of the late April skies since Tuesday afternoon — nine in Texas, five in Louisiana, two in Oklahoma and one each in Missouri and Illinois.

Three persons were killed and five were injured when a twister smashed through the south Texas community of Yancey during Tuesday afternoon. Eight were injured in the Beaumont-Vidor area and four were hurt at Calvert.

Louisiana State Police said the worst damage appeared to be in the eastern central section of that state.

"At least two tornadoes came through Vernon Parish," said a State Police spokesman at Leesville, "and there were two fatalities."

"A little girl was killed when a tree fell on her at Pitkin, and a woman was killed when a house trailer overturned near Rosepine."

Identities were not immediately available.

Large hail accompanied severe thunderstorms that raked portions of Louisiana, Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri through Tuesday and into the night. Rains of an inch or more were common.

Wintry weather clung to sections of the northern Rockies and Plains. Stockmen's advisories were continued in parts of Wyoming and South Dakota.

Up to 14 inches of snow in the Lead-Deadwood area of South Dakota on Monday and Tuesday caused a lengthy power outage that forced cancellation of school classes Tuesday. The snow downed trees, which in turn fell on power lines.

Flooding — both from recent heavy rains and snowmelt — plagued scattered areas from Minnesota and North Dakota to Mississippi and Louisiana. The Souris River was expected to crest 4.5 feet above flood stage in Minot, N.D., today, and Army Engineers said the Mississippi River was rising toward a new crest in the South.

4 injured in accident

CARUTHERSVILLE — Four Caruthersville residents received minor injuries this morning in a two-vehicle accident five miles south of town on Route U.

The accident occurred at 10 a.m. near a section of road where a highway department crew was working, when an eastbound pickup truck driven by Michael Maurice Avis, 29, stopped for a flagman and was struck from behind by a car driven by Woodrow Wilson Webber, 58.

Webber and his wife, R. D. Webber, 64, were treated at Cain Clinic for minor injuries. Avis and a passenger in his truck, Ernie Harrison, 30, were taken to Doctors Clinic.

Letters to the Editor

April 25, 1975

Mr. Tony Pippin
Editor, Sikeston Standard
Sikeston, Mo.

Dear Tony;

I want to thank you for taking your time to provide the fine entertainment for our buffet during our recent press meeting. You, your daughter, and your friends did a really fine job. Everyone enjoyed and appreciated your efforts.

Many of our members said that this was the best meeting that they could remember. If it was the best, you and your friends had a lot to do with making it the best. If I can ever do anything to pay you back, please call on me.

I don't know what your paper's policy on letter to the editor is, but if you can I would appreciate it if you could run the attached letter from me thanking the Sikeston Merchants for their hospitality and the people at the Ramada Inn. If you can't run the letter please let me know and I will send personal letters. Thanks again for all of your help.

Sincerely
Ralph Clayton, President
Southeast Missouri
Press Association

LETTER TO THE EDITOR
The Daily Sikeston Standard

Dear Sir;

The members of The Southesast Missouri Press Association recently held their 83rd annual meeting in Sikeston. Many of the press association members felt that this meeting was one of the best in the history of the organization. If this was the case, it was because of the hospitality shown to the press members by the fine merchants of Sikeston who donated door prizes which were given out at the meeting; because of the almost flawless service provided by the manager (Bob Gray) and staff of the Ramada Inn; and the help of the staff of The Sikeston Standard.

Our press association voted several years ago to hold our yearly meetings in Sikeston one year, Poplar Bluff the next, then Cape the next, then back to Sikeston. We feel certain that when it is time to hold our meeting in Sikeston again that the largest crowd in history will show up because of the good time everyone experienced at this year's meeting.

Your town can be proud of the way its citizens and businesses greet visitors.

Sincerely,
Ralph Clayton, President
Southeast Missouri
Press Association

MEMORIES OF A SPRING MOON

I am a daughter
Of the past.
Sometimes .....
When the spring moon's full
And the mists begin to gather,
I let my mind roam free.

As I breathe
The cool, moist air
Of the woodlands,
I recall the awe
I once felt
At a shrill, sad scream
Of a panther
That I heard along ago
On a hill.

Sometimes, I think
Of that strange one
And wonder:
Will he pass this way again?
It thrilled me
Just to hear him
Sing a chilling song
In his own wild way.

Are we so bold?
Can we stand on that hill,
Alone in the darkness?
Can we shout so eloquently,
No matter our message,
And still be heard
In the land below?

For the wild things are gone,
And man is safe alone,
When standing on that hill.
Yet, the darkness
Is still there
Are there special words
We can say that will
Astound, awe, or thrill?

Time may still my voice
And dim my eye
And freeze my brain
'Til I bow
To humility and pain.
But my memories --
My memories will be hard
To repress.

Washinton report

Symington expresses gratitude

WASHINGTON, D.C.--As most Missourians now know, on April 22, I announced I would not seek reelection to the United States Senate.

A major factor contributing to this decision was expressed in my statement to the press in St. Louis, where I said in part:

"As the people of my State well know, during all my previous campaigns, as well as in subsequent Senate operations, my wife was my political partner, her efforts and wise counsel being of very great assistance to me; and it is no secret to my friends that herloss has had a major impact on my desire to continue in the Senate.

"Accordingly, I have decided not to be a candidate for reelection in 1976."

Much important business incident to the progress of Missouri and the nation will be coming up in the Senate over the next 20 months. As but one example, few would dispute the fact this nation now faces its most serious economic difficulties since the Great Depression of the 1930's.

These economic difficulties are further complicated by an energy shortage which has accelerated the flow of dollars from this country to nations overseas, a matter my constituents know has worried me for over twelve years.

At the same time, this Administration tells us the Federal budget will show the largest peace time deficit in the country's history, a deficit for the Fiscal 1976 estimated to be as large as all Federal expendituеs in the year 1952, the year I was first elected to the Senate.

There would appear some positive notes, however. The Congress is changing its stance on this nation's involvement in various overseas military eventures. That change, in itself, should lead to more constructive priorities in the allocation of our increasingly limited treasure.

At the end of my present term, counting the seven years serving President Truman in the Executive Branch, I will have been in government over thirty-one years, and during these remaining months, it is my earnest desire to continue to serve the people of Missouri and the nation to the best of my ability.

My deep gratitude to you all for making that service possible.

$225,000 grant awarded

JEFFERSON CITY--Gov. Christopher S. Bond and Public Safety Director Michael D. Garrett have announced that the Missouri Department of Public Safety has received a grant of $225,000 from the Federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration to assist in the development of a Missouri Action Plan for Public Safety (MAPPS). The MAPPS program will continue throughout 1975 and will seek to identify ways of reducing crime in Missouri and improving the state's system of criminal justice.

"Se have been waiting several months to receive a decision on the grant application which was submitted in January," Bond said. "We are delighted to learn that this application has been approved, and I have asked the Department of Public Safety to begin immediately to implement this significant project."

Bond and Garrett indicated that the MAPPS program will involve criminal justice professionals, as well as public officials and private citizens who are concerned about the problem of crime in Missouri. Program participants will serve on task forces that will be established in six areas: police, courts, adult corrections, juvenile delinquency, criminal justice information systems and community crime prevention.

Anne Murray to be at State Fair

SEDALIA--Grammy award winner Anne Murray will entertain the crowds attending the 1975 Missouri State Fair, scheduled Aug. 15-24. Her performance, on Aug. 21, is one of many attractions booked for the fair this year.

The young Canadian-born singer is best known for one of her first releases, "Snowbird", which became an international hit, topping the American pop and country charts. She became the first female Canadian to sell a million records and received a traditional gold record for her efforts.

Since her success with "Snowbird", Miss Murray has appeared on talk variety shows, in night clubs and has produced several other song hits, including "Danny's Song", "He Thinks I Still Care" and "Love Song."

Miss Murray can best be described as resolute and straight-forward. She has the warmth and talent to appeal to a wide range of listeners.

She will appear in front of the grandstand at the Missouri State Fair at 6 and 9 p.m.

Two area students to graduate summa cum laude

CAPE GIRARDEAU--Valerie Rose Diebold of Benton Route One and Patricia Ann Dunivan of Puxico are among the 16 students to be graduated from Southeast Missouri State University summa cum laude, or with highest honors.

To graduate from the university with honors, a student must have an overall grade point average of at least 3.75 on a 4.00 scale.

Three area students, including one Sikeston student, will graduate magna cum laude, or with great honors. Only 232 students have earned this distinction this semester at SeMo State. Area students include James Mark Kelley of Essex, Ginger L. Wilson of Sikeston Route One and Victoria Lou Hamm of Oran. To achieve this distinction they must have earned a grade point average ot at least 3.50.

Fifty-four students will be graduated cum laude, or with honors. This means they must have an overall grade point average of at least 3.25. Area students in this category include Vicki Lynn Hopgood, 911 Davis Blvd, and Barbara Hendrix Hunn, Sikeston, Route One; Lonnie Kay Jones of Bernie; Larry Kenneth Peters of Bertrand Route One; Debra Yvonne Eastwood of Chaffee Route One; Terry H. Gibson of Dexter Star Route; Thomas J. Hill of Illmo; Laura Jane French of Portageville; Margaret Ann Binford of Puxico; Rebecca Bain Rickman of Scott City.

The top three students in the spring class and their grade point averages were Lillith Mae Vandergriff of Farmington, 3.971; Carl Michael Bakewell of Desoto, 3.940; and Stephen Edward Bennett of Cairo, Ill., 3.938.

All honor students Sunday were presented their honor cards, which adorn the caps and gowns they will wear at the commencement exercise May 11. They will be recognized again at the commencement ceremony.

Quints receive names

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The Levy quintuplets, given an "excellent chance of survival" by doctors, are one week old today and have received names.

Mark and Pamela Levy of Fairfield, Ohio, said Monday they have named the three girls Randi Jill, Michelle Amy and Allison Stacey and the boys Neal Richard and David Eric.

Doctors said it would be at least two weeks before any of the infants would be strong enough to leave the hospital.

Only Randi Jill, the firstborn, has been removed from an incubator.

Legislators tour facilities

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Promoting the need for a new Revenue Department computer, Gov. Christopher S. Bond escorted Missouri legislators through the computer facility Monday.

Bond, who has unsuccessfully prodded the legislature to fund $1.1 million for a new computer, told the lawmakers, "The Department of Revenue computers are nine years old and they are obsolete. They are not doing the job effectively and they are growing more and more expensive to operate."

The legislature has repeatedly turned back funds for the new computer, but now is considering funds to upgrade the present one.

Rep. Richard DeCoster, D-Canton, who went on the tour, said afterwards that the department probably needs a new computer, but that he doesn't know if the funds are available for it.

Highlights and Sidelights

Unemployment benefits increased

JEFFERSON CITY--The Missouri General Assembly decided to play a waiting game with the economy when it approved a bill increasing unemployment benefits for the state's jobless.

The bill, signed into law last week by Gov. Christopher S. Bond, could bankrupt the Unemployment Insurance Trust Fund by the end of 1976 if the economy doesn't improve and people get jobs again.

The fund is danger because the legislators did not provide any substantial increase in revenue to cover the higher subsidy payments for the unemployed. Those hikes will have to be financed out of the accumulated reserve in the fund.

"We're talking about 14 to 15 months in the future," Rep Earl Schlef (D-Dellwood) said. "But we feel unemployment will go down with less people drawing the unemployment compensation. And from all I've read and from all the economists we've consulted, things should be picking up in the third quarter of this year."

The chairman of the House labor committee,Schlef said the unemployment rate would have to average 8 per cent over a long time period for the fund to bankrupt. In March, the state unemployment rate was 7.6 per cent.

The bill will raise benefits for a jobless worker to 65 per cent of his average weekly wage up to a maximum of $85 a week.

The level now is 52 per cent of a worker's weekly wage up to $67 a week. This bill also brings 11,000 new workers under the coverage and goes into effect immediately because of an emergency clause.

The changes in the law will cost the trust fund up to $58 million a year, assuming an average insured umemployment rate of 6.2 per cent. The rate stood at 8 per cent in March, higher then the actual unemployment rate of 7.6 per cent because benefits still are going to persons who have dropped out of the labor force.

The unemployment fund is supported by a special tax on business, and that tax base was increased by the bill, a move that will bring in an additional $5 million a year.

But with the new outlay higher than the additional income , the accumulated reserve of the fund will decline. The fund contained $240.3 million at the end of last year and Geoffrey A. McCarron, state director of labor and industrial relations, predicts that it will drop from the $190 million it has now to $100 to $120 million by Dec. 31. The exact amount will depend on the unemployment rate.

McCarron's figures show that if a 6.2 per cent average insured unemployment rate is assumed, the fund could go in the red to the tune of $27 million by the end of 1976.

The legislators, aides to the governor and lobbyists for labor and business agree that the legislature will have to stabilize the financing of the unemployment insurance program next year if the economy doesn't improve.

McCarron expressed concern about the way the General Assembly dug into the trust fund in the first place, saying that it was not designed to sustain a prolonged depression.

"We're in good shape when you talk of the short term," McCarron said. "The fund is doing what it is designed to do, but if the unemployment rate goes much higher, all bets are off. The fund isn't designed to survive at that level."

For more information, contact the Refuge Manager , Mingo National Wildlife Refuge, Puxico, Mo. 63960, telephone number 222-3686. The refuge is administered by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, U.S. Department of the Interior.

Pilot performs

The Thunderbird solo pilot domonstrates the maximum performance capabilities of the T-38 Talon. The U. S. Air Force Thunderbirds will perform at Blytheville Air Force Base, Ark., May 17. Their Air Show will begin at 3 p.m. The public is invited.

Air demonstraton team to be featured May 17

BLYTHEVILLE AFB, Ark– The Thunderbirds made a short visit to Blytheville Air Force Base recently on their way back to Nellis AFB. The Air Force Demonstration Team, after refueling for the return flight to their home base, gave a few spectators a taste of the aerodynamic acrobatics to be featured at Blytheville AFB's Armed Forces Day Open House on May 17.

The base will open its gates to the public at noon and will remain open until 5 p.m. The air show begins at 3 p.m. The Eighth Air Force Band will also be performing during the Open House. Among the various base organizations taking part in the event will be the Non Commissioned Officers Wives Club, the Officers Wives Club, and the Military Dog Section of the Security Police Squadron with a sentry dog demonstration. Other attractions include booths from the Arkansas Air National Guard and the Boy Scouts.

Many of the Air Force's operational aircraft, including the B-52 Stratofortress, the KC-135 Stratotanker, and the T-29 will be on public display. The Air National Guard will be exhibiting the F-101 Fighter and the C-130 Transport.

A commissioning ceremony is planned for 15 cadets from the Memphis State University Air Force ROTC Detachment. The cadets will be shown sworn in on the flightline prior to the air show.

Armed Forces Day 1975 holds a special significance in that it is the 25th annual observance, as well as the official kickoff date for Department of Defense participation in the nation's Bicentennial celebration. This year's theme of "Vigilant, Vital, and Volunteer," with emphasis on vital, befits today's military services as aptly as it did our fighting forefathers.

The message to the nation will be that the armed forces of 1975 are as vital in guaranteeing our national independence and personal freedom as were the musket carrying militia of 1775.

The United States Air Force Thunderbirds, the main attraction of the day, have the vital mission of demonstrating the professionalism, versatility and flexability of Air Force personnel and equipment.

Recognized by their distinctive red, white and blue aircraft, the Thunderbirds are noted for their precision aerial maneuvers, which are designed to demonstrate professional airmanship.

Currently, the Thunderbirds fly the Northrop T-38 Talon, a supersonic trainer, which at one time held 12 world records, establishing it as one of the world's best performing aircraft.

In addition to commanding the USAF Air Demonstration Squadron, official name of the team, Major Chris Patterakis, from Modesto, Calif., is the leader of the five-ship demonstration team. Following his lead are captains Gil Mook, left wing, Charleston, R. I.; Steve Mish, right wing, Fisherville, Va.; Doug Roach, slot pilot, Romulus, Mich.; and Jim Simons, solo, Grass Range, Mont. Maj. Ray White of Dallas, Tex, is the team logistics, officer, while Capt. Lloyd Newton of Ridgeland, S. C., is the team narrator.

The Thunderbirds team is composed of 75 men and women working together in over 25 different career fields. Many are from Western Tennessee and the Bootheel of Missouri area. In addition to the crewmembers, Major Patterakis commands three support officers and 65 enlisted people in the fields of operations, in-information administration personnel, photography, supply, training and life support and maintenance.

Although famous for their aerial demonstrations, the Thunderbirds are a highly diversified, flexible Air Force squadron. Each Thunderbird must do his job to the highest of standards as well as present the U.S. Air Force to the American public, and the United States to the people of the free world..truly "America' Ambassadors in Blue."

Boaters should check gas tanks

JEFFERSON CITY--State Water Patrol Capt. Claude L. Joplin alerts owners of gasoline-powered boats with self-contained fuel tanks that specific risks are involved in the operation of their boats.

Analysis of accident data indicate that a substantial number of fires and explosions on gasoline-powered boats resulted from the ignition of fuel, or its fumes, which had leaked from deteriorated terneplate fuel tanks.

Terneplate fuel tanks are constructed of steel coated with a lead-tin alloy. Over a period of time there is a tendency toward corrosion, resulting in serious deterioration and subsequent leakage of fuel into the boat.

Boat owners are advised to make a complete removal of their tanks if practical, and conduct a thorough inspection. If removal is not possible, a complete visual examination should be made, or a non-destructive pressure test conducted by competent personnel. Bottom surfaces and any part of the tank in contact with boat structure are particularly susceptible to corrosion.

SeMo stage band to perform

CAPE GIRARDEAU--The Southeast Missouri State University stage band will present a free concert in Rose Theatre on May 5 at 7:30 p.m.

The band, under the direction of Bill Ewing, who teaches music at Central High School and the university, will perform a variety of music ranging from jazz to rock.

The concert is open to the public.

The diesel engine was created by Rudolf Diesel in 1897.

The first machine gun was invented by Richard Gatling in 1861.

New education programs approved for funding

JEFFERSON CITY — Fourteen new educational programs in Missouri have received approval from the State Department of Elementary and Secondary Education for federal funding of approximately $600,000 during the 1975-76 school year.

The grants will permit school districts and other local educational agencies to develop supplementary learning courses in addition to the regular curriculum. For example, the 14 new innovative projects include such study areas as environmental education, language development and reinforcement of basic skills.

Projects are selected on a competitive basis, with all proposals evaluated by Department of Education personnel and a number of evaluators outside the department. The number of project approved is determined by the amount of money available and the size of budget requests. A tota l of 47 local education agencies submitted proposals this year.

School districts apply for the Title III federal funds for the first year of operation. For the second and third years of the projects, the districts resubmit financial requests, with a 20 per cent reduction in support for both those years. At the end of the three years, local school districts are expected to carry the full cost of the project if it is successful.

One of the purposes of the Title III grants is to inform other school districts about innovative programs so that they may adapt successful projects for their own use.

The final decision on how much funding each project will receive for next year will not be made until this summer.

Projects approved for their first year of federal support and the amount requested for funding the first year are:

Berkeley School District (St. Louis County), $35,450, "Project LAMP" (Language Arts Masery Prescription), designed to provide in-service training for teachers in grades 7-12 in the skills of human relations, teaching of reading, diagnostic and prescriptive teaching strategies and curriculum changes to increase student achievement.

Camdenton School District (Camden County), $40,094, "Cybernetic Science-Career Oriented Curriculum", a science instruction system that will permit individualized instruction for junior high students.

Columbia School District (Boone County), $37,208.34, "Environmental Education Program", to develop an educational program which includes use of outdoor land areas in the Columbia community and provides students with the opportunity to become more involved with the natural environment through a series of planned learning experiences.

Division of Youth Services, Department of Social Services, $66,991, "Project VITA L" (Vocations Identify Talents As Livelihood), designed a a program combining two essential ingredients, vocational evaluation and community involvement, with existing prevocational programs. "VITAL" will serve the campuses of the Girls Training School at Chillicothe, the Boys Training School at Boonville and the Yuth Center at Poplar Bluff.

Ferguson-Florissant School District (St. Louis County), $74,996.95, "Staff Development System", has two major goals for teachers, which are to insure continuous educational program renewal and to have an individualized self-improvement program specifically designed for each teacher.

Independence School District (Jackson County), $65,528, "Secondary Reinforcement of Fundamental Skills", an in-service project designed to aid secondary teachers to better teach basic skills for remedial students.

Jennings School District (St. Louis County), $27,261.25, "Project CARE" (Counselors are Reaching Everyone), designed to train teachers to think and act as counselors with their students on all levels.

Kansas City School District (Jackson County), $74,748.90, "Multi-Media Appproach to Instruction", to provide in-service training and curriculum guides on the use of media aids to all teachers.

Lee's Summit School District (Jackson County), $20,984 "Increasing Team Teaching Competency for Problem Learners", designed to modify the instructional program, prepare the system for flexibility, and help teachers provide tolerance and acceptance in the classroom setting of children with a broad range of individual differences.

Montgomery County School District, $62,951, "Comprehensive Instruction Through Media", designed to provide a variety of services such as utilization of instructional media, home-based early childhood education and a system of circulation for reading materials.

Mountain Grove School District (Wright County), $23,297, "Communication Improvement Program", designed to transform a typical language arts program into a total communication program, including the areas of reading, speaking, listening, creative expression and dramatization.

New Madrid Masons to receive degrees

NEW MADRID — Master Masons throughout the New Madrid area will have an opportunity to receive three of the Scottish Rite Lodge of Perfection Degrees when they are conferred in ceremonies on May 16 at the New Madrid Masonic Temple.

William S. Dillon, president of the New Madrid Scottish Rite Club, said that following a 6 p.m. dinner for candidates and Scottish Rite members, the degrees will be presented by special degree teams.

Dillon said Master Masons receiving the three degrees will be able to complete their Scottish Rite degree work during a special one-day class on May 31 at the St. Louis Scottish Rite Cathedral.

Special activities are also planned for that weekend for both the candidates for the degrees and their wives.

On May 30, there will be a western-style dinner and dance with entertainment by Rex Allen Jr., Eddie Beers and Brenda Kay Riley and the Rhythm Drifters for the candidates and their wives. While the men are receiving the Scottish Rite degrees on May 31, there will be a special ladies day program which will include a tour of the historical district of St. Charles.

Scottish Rite candidates and their wives from the New Madrid area will be provided motel rooms on the night of May 30 in St. Louis close to the Scottish Rite Cathedral.

Dillon said addition al information is available from any Scottish Rite member in the area.

What people are saying...

Carla Hills

"I don't try to be the secretary of HUD who is a woman, to be the best woman secretary of HUD, that's not my goal in life. I'd like to be the best secretary HUD has had. I hope I bring a multitude of perceptions to it both as a lawyer and from my background and various interests."

— Carla Hills, U.S. Secretary of the Department of Housing and Urban Development and only the third woman in American history to serve on a President's cabinet.

"The pattern is established. Every few years, someone discovers that the CIA is not doing what it is supposed to be doing: there is a loud declamation; commissions are established; legislators say that now, this time, they will do their job and find out what is really going on; a few agency officials resign; public interest, first intense, begins to wane; things return to 'normal' until the next wave of recriminations sweeps in. Meanwhile, the spying goes on and on."

— Columnist Alan Wolfe

"We're not talking here about rifles and shotguns, or about taking these away from the farmers. We're talking about handguns, which are intended to kill human beings."

— Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago advocating federal control of pistols.

"The big sleeper isn't Wallace but Kennedy. A lot of people are keeping their options open in case Kennedy gets in."

— United Auto Workers' District Council leader Ray Majerus saying many Democrats are withholding support for Gov. George Wallace as the Democratic presidential nominee until certain Sen. Edward Kennedy won't run.

"The revolution has moved off the streets and gone indoors. I don't want to be the only one left in the street."

— Eldridge Cleaver, 39, fugitive former Black Panther leader, saying in Paris that "things have changed" in the United States and he wants to come home from seven years in self-imposed exile.

"You (the press) have great power. And in the Minds of millions of Americans, you have betrayed your power. Your credibility is nonexistent and your audience views you with disrespect, contempt and yes, even hatred."

— Virginia Sheehy, leading foe of busing in Boston's school system, addressing the annual conference of American Society of Newspaper Editors.

"What I think is behind all this pornography we're seeing is impotency. If a man is a man — if he's sure of himself and knows what real love means — he doesn't need porn. Impotency and homosexuality are rampant in this business. No healthy man would look upon sex like that."

— Actress Katharine Hepburn criticizing the new permissiveness in Hollywood.

"They have made me president of the Cambodian popular resistance but that does not mean that I can see any role for myself after victory. Even if one thinks of a sharing of power, there will be a clash. I am a very independent man."

— Prince Norodom Sihanouk of Cambodia announcing he will retire from public service shortly after the Khmer Rouge complete the transition of power there.

Great-aunt may be eligible for funds

(EDITOR'S NOTE: These questions and answers about Social Security were provided by Gary Eason, district manager, Social Security Administration, 339 Broadway, Cape Girardeau.)

Q. My great-aunt is 72, and the only income she has is a small Social Security check. Would she be eligible for monthly supplemental security income payments?

A. The supplemental security income program makes monthly payments to people with little or no income and limited resources who are 65 or over or blind or disabled -- so your great-aunt may be eligible. She can get information about applying for supplemental security income by calling or writing any Social Security office.

Q. My father's doctor told him that he needs a hearing aid. Will his Medicare pay for a hearing aid?

A. No. Hearing aids and hearing examinations are not covered by Medicare. Questions about what Medicare covers -- and does not cover-- are answered in the blue-covered booklet, "Your Medicare Handbook", which is sent to all people who have Medicare.

Q. I received a mail-order catalog that advertises plastic Medicare cards for sale. Could I use a plastic card instead of the Medicare card I got from Social Security?

A. Plastic or metal cards sold by some manufacturers are no substitute for your official Medicare card. The Medicare card that was mailed to you by the Social Security Administration is the card you should show when you get health care services covered by Medicare.

Q. I'll be retiring in a few months and would like to get some idea of what my monthly Social Security check will be. Is there some way I can figure this out?

A. You can get a free copy of the leaflet, "Estimating your Social Security Retirement Check", by contacting any Social Security office. It tells you how to estimate the amount of the monthly checks that you and your dependents may get. You should apply for Social Security benefits two or three months before you reach retirement age so your monthly checks will start on time.

Q. I was disabled three months ago and applied for Social Security payments but I still haven't received a check. When will my payments start?

A. Under the social security law, there is a five-month waiting period for disability benefits. If you are eligible for payments, your checks will start with the sixth full month of your disability.

Q. I always kept my Social Security card in my wallet. Last week, I lost my wallet. How can I get a new card?

A. Call any Social Security office and tell someone there that you've lost your card. If you kept a record of your Social Security number, give it to the person when you report your loss. You will get a duplicate card with the same Social Security number on it, but it will take several weeks.

Q. I farm on a fairly large scale and I'm thinking of retiring. What changes in my operation do I have to make to be able to draw Social Security checks?

A. To be considered retired, you must establish that you are no longer rendering substantial services in your business. This doesn't mean you have to stay away from the farm altogether, but you should decide how you will limit your activities and then contact Social Security to determine whether you can be considered retired.

Q. I'll be 72 in March of next year. I still work and earn $100 per month. Will my checks start at age 72?

A. The law was recently changed so that only the earnings in months prior to age 72 count as earnings for the year you become 72. Since you will earn only $2,000 in January and February, your earnings will be less than the exempt amount and you can be paid beginning for January.

Nessen says plans sabotaged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Several of President Ford's advisers feel someone is trying to sabotage his plans to run for the presidency in 1976 by planting false news stories, a White House spokesman says.

Press Secretary Ron Nessen made the statement Monday in response to an article in this week's edition of Newsweek which says Ford told a meeting of political intimates he would not seek election because of his wife's health and because he felt he could not spend the time and the money needed for the race.

"The President wants it known that this story in Newsweek is untrue. The President held no such meeting," Nessen said. "The President definitely plans to run for election in 1976 and he intends to announce his candidacy in the near future."

In New York, a spokesman for Newsweek said the magazine stands by its story.

Asked if the appearance of the Newsweek story indicates someone may be trying to sabotage Ford's plans, Nessen said, "Some of his advisers feel that someone is trying to sabotage his campaign."

Nessen said the advisers, whom he did not name, have not "zeroed in on any particular person or persons. But they have some suspicions."

Asked what evidence the advisers might have, he replied, "It's a suspicion. Whoever leaked that incorrect story is not a friend of Newsweek or the President." He said Ford was "very puzzled by the motivation of whoever did this."

Beans, beans, and more beans! The Sikeston Seed Store sold 150 pounds of the green snap varieties for seed to C. G. Leakis of near Blodgett last week. Leakis, who is a Greek, and formerly of Chicago, has rented five or 10 acres from the Marshall Land & Lbr. Co., which he intends to put into garden truck.

Following the requests of the Mayor, Chamber of Commerce officers and other interested citizens, the Missouri Utilities Co., has drawn up a plan for a whiteway in Sikeston's business section, which would place 50 modern light posts on downtown streets.

Sikeston girls, competing in the food contest at Cape Saturday won first prize, although Cape high won first as a team by placing first in one of the clothing contests and the home nursing contest. Jewel Mouser and Forrest Carter were the cook team from the local high school. Letha Scott and Verna King were Sikeston competitors in the clothing contest.

What's the law?

The case of the confined co-ed

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Suzy was a freshman at a state college and the first thing she learned was that she couldn't live off campus. Intent upon pursuing freedom as well as education, she put down her books and attacked the constitutionality of the regulation that restricted her living to the campus.

"You call that living?" she protested to a judge. "As a citizen, I have a right to reside wherever I want and to associate with whomever I choose. While college may be a fountain of learning, I think that regulation is all wet."

"No, it's not," responded a university official. "College is more than just going to classes. By living in a dormitory, students learn self-governmet, group discipline, community living and they have a better opportunity to create relationships with the university staff and other students. The regulation isn't intended to be restrictive. It's intended to be broadening."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you hold the regulation to be unconstitutional?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that not all constitutional rights are absolute and not on the campus of a state university. Considering the reasons for the regulation, noted the judge, it seemed reasonable and not arbitrary and not in violation of Suzy's constitutional rights.

Dr. Lamb

Financial and medical advice required

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 78 and seem to be in normal health. I think that with a little limbering up I might even be able to play baseball. I was a catcher.

Six years ago I had pneumonia, and the Xray showed what the doctor described as a tortuous and sclerotic aorta. In the past four years I have lost heavily in the stock market, and I am thinking of doing some truck farming to improve my financial condition. It would require some work, sometimes a good bit on my part. I also have a wife to consider.

DEAR READER — It sounds to me like you need two things, a good medical consultation and a good financial consultation.

The tortuous sclerotic aorta means that the main big artery that carries blood from your heart to all the body except the lungs has gradually hardened. With the loss of elasticity it literally elongates and can be seen on a standard chest Xray, particularly from a side view. Many people in your age group have this. It may not cause any problem.

Even so I think you should have another checkup with particular attention to whether you are physically up to the amount of heavy physical labor you may be anticipating. The status of your heart, how well you do during exertion and your blood pressure are all important in making the decision.

Then I would suggest you see your banker and try to get some financial advice from the investment and trust department of a fairly large bank. You may not be as bad off as you think. Stocks that lose value sometimes regain their value if held a reasonable length of time. Get an expert to help you with this area. Who knows, you may not really need to get into the truck farming business.

DEAR DR.LAMB — Each afternoon after lunch a group of fellow employes toss around a baseball, football or engage in fairly vigorous exercise. I maintain it is better for their health if they rested quietly after a meal, because the heart is subject to an additional workload from digestion.

They maintain that exercise aids the digestive process, and exercise of a vigorous nature after meals is a good procedure. Who is right?

DEAR READER — I am all for proper exercise. Light exercise after a meal won't hurt any healthy person. If an individual has heart disease and is subject to recurrent short heart pains, angina, he may find that they are more apt to occur with exertion after a meal than with the same amount of exertion before a meal.

So it is a matter of degree. If your fellow workers are pretty healthy and used to exercise then light or moderate exercise after a meal may actually be good for them. If they try vigorous exercise they may be overdoing it. When possible I think a person should wait about two hours after a heavy meal before reasonably vigorous exercise. A light meal may not have much influence on a normal person's ability to exercise safely.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O.Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on balanced diet, send 50 cents and a long self-addressed stamped envelope to the same address and ask for the "Balanced diet" booklet.

Today in U.S. History

By The Associated Press

Today is Wednesday, April 30, the 120th day of 1975. There are 245 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1789, George Washington was inaugurated as the first President of the United States. He was sworn in at Federal Hall in New York.

On this date —

In 1798, the U.S. Navy Department was created by an act of Congress.

In 1803, the Louisiana Purchase was made from France, more than doubling the size of the United States.

In 1812, Louisiana was admitted to the Union as the 18th state.

In 1900, the railroad engineer immortalized in an American folk song, Casey Jones, was killed in a train wreck at Vaughan, Miss.

Demonstration illustrates the 'little things'

It's not everyday that the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs can turn into "human" telephone lines, have their brains worked faster than a computer or hold an intelligent conversation with a stuffed animal.

But's that's what happened Monday night when John E. Mohl, Southwestern Bell Telephone Company's science demonstrator, put on his show, "Little Things Mean a Lot" -for the Rotary and again Tuesday night for the Kiwanis.

Mohl, using slides, tape recordings and more than a dozen props, stressed the role of little things in providing good telephone service.

"Telephone calls you place around the world, across the country and even across town are easier, quicker and generally cheaper than they were 20 years ago," Mohl told his audience.

"This kind of progress," Mohl said, "was possible because of little things-such as solar cells, transistors and integrated circuits."

He pointed out that these "Little things" have actually reduced the cost of long distance telephone calls. "To call from New York to San Francisco in 1920 cost about $20 for the first three minutes- if you could get the call through at all," Mohl explained. "Today, that same call, if you dial it yourself, costs as little as 70 cents."

During his program, he called on membrs of the Rotary Club to demonstrate how telephone conversations are transmitted. Later, the audience participated in memory experiments which showed the average person can correctly scan a memory of more than 1,000,000 items in less than a second.

Mohl concluded his show with a stuffed toy dog equipped with a microphone and receiver. The dog was designed to help speech therapists break down communication barriers in children by talking from a remote location through the toy.

Cape building to be renamed for Scully

CAPE GIRARDEAU — The new lettering has been affixed, and the arrangements are set for Sunday's ceremonies honoring the retiring president of Southeast Missouri State University and redesignating the Education-Psychology Building as the "Mark F. Scully Building."

Open to the public, the activities will begin at 2 p.m. on the south lawn of the building and a reception will follow in the Commons Room of the structure.

The program honoring Dr. Scully is sponsored jointly by the faculty senate and the board of regents. Principal speaker will be Dr. Fred Goodwin, chairman of the division of language and literature at Southeast Missouri State. His address is entitled "Of Men and Institutions."

Dr. William L. Tomlinson Jr. of St. Louis will represent the board of regents in officially renaming the Edcation-Psychology Building. There will be a response from Dr. Milford O. Holt, dean of teacher education, and remarks from President Scully.

Also on the program will be the presentation to Dr. Scully of the Air Force ROTC Outstanding Service Award by Lt. Col. Robert L. Mize, commander of the university's AFROTC detachment.

Dr. Larry Grisvard, professor of speech, will discuss the "Scully Scholarship Fund," which has been established by the faculty senate to provide grants for able and deserving students.

Dr. Louise Reddick, chairperson of the faculty senate, said contributions to the scholarship fund may be sent to Jack Wimp, Southeast Missouri State's treasurer. Checks should be made payable to the "Scully Scholarship Fund," she said.

Sunday's activities will be moved to the Rose Theatre of the Language Arts Building on the campus in the event of bad weasther.

Dr. Scully, the first Southeast Missouri State graduate to return to the institution as its president, has served as the university's chief executive since 1956. He has presided over the university during the period of its greatest growth.

The board of regents, in voting to name a building for the retiring president, broke precedent in electing to designate a campus facility for a living individual.

Money up in smoke

For a challenge, stop smoking and save money. Not only would you save money on the cigarettes, which is no longer a small item, but your health should improve noticeably.
— D.D., Clinton, Ia.

Envelope intelligence

You can reuse envelopes by typing new addresses on peel-off labels to cover the original address and return address. — A.G., Bluefield, W. Va.

The well-used washer

When you are entertaining large groups consider using your washing machine as a cooler. After making certain that you have disconnected the washer, load it with ice and soft drinks. After the party it's easy to drain the water. — S.F., Chesterfield, N.J.

Pass it along

Don't throw an item away just because you're tired of it. Take old furniture, clothing, appliances and toys to your local Salvation Army, Goodwill Industries or a secondhand shop. — H.W., Arcadia, Ind.

Flatten first

Remove tops and bottoms of cans and boxes and flatten them. Crush other containers before discarding or hold for recycling collection. Ordinarily, 98 per cent of the "space" in a full trash can is air. — T.C., Cleveland, Ohio

OLD TIMERS BOTH, or so most tree experts would think judging by the sizable girth of these two Douglas Fir trees in Oregon. But actually, the one at right is an imposter — only 60 years old yet matching the 30-inch diameter of the 460-year-old tree at left. The side-by-side comparison was made to illustrate dramatically the great strides scientists have made in replacing lumber by accelerating tree growth. The artificial "super trees" are created by chemically altering cells from an existing tree to form roots and needles for another.

Farm bill passage urged

JEFFERSON CITY — Rep. Vic Downing, (D), Bragg City, has requested that C. R. (Dick) Johnston, president of the Missouri Farm Bureau, publicly urge President Ford to sign into law the emergency farm bill passed by the U.S. House of Representatatives and by the U. S. Senate.

Downing, who is a member of the Agriculture Committee in the Missouri House of Representatives, a member of the Missouri Farm Bureau's Cotton Advisory Board, a member of Missouri Farmers Association, a member of the board of directors of the National Cotton Council and vice president of the National Cotton Ginners Association, said, "I believe the image of the Missouri Farm Bureau would be greatly improved if Dick Johnston would let the President of the United States know that the farmers of Missouri need and are in favor of the emergency farm bill passed by Congress.

400 representatives attend conference

By J.T. "JERRY" HOWARD
157th District
Representative

JEFFERSON CITY — On April 13 I traveled to Washington, D.C. at the invitation of Secretary of State Kissinger to attend a National Foreign Policy Conference under the sponsorship of the state department and the American Association of Young Political Leaders.

At this conference some 400 representatives, senators and representatives of local government were present. At this conference various speakers from the state government covered their respective areas of responsibility. Subjects of energy, food, foreign trade and the relations of these to foreign policy were discussed as well as various questions asked from the audience were answered in a straight forward manner and overall I felt that the conference was a very good means for the state department to inform local governments and the average citizen through the delegates there. Since the information was given on "background only", I am not in a position to quote any of the speakers and therefore will draw conclusions from my notes taken at the conference.

A basic premise is emerging from our state department policy which says that the world is becoming increasingly interdependent. This means that we have no alternative but to do business with the entire world and keep all of our options open so that we can discuss our mutual problems and help to solve some of the problems that underdeveloped countries cannot solve themselves.

A point to substantiate this is the conclusion that now has been reached regarding the country of Bangledesh. The problems that developed in Bangledesh and the ensuing war were created by poverty and starvation. The immigration of people to Bangledesh created the problems of starvation for these people and competition with the people in Bangledesh for the available food supplies and land. Consequently, the Indian government had to step in and quell the problems.

The delegates voted by show of hands showing their opinion as to whether the United States should support South Viet Nam and most delegates were only for limited support for humanitarian and refugee purposes. This poll further indicates that the people of the United States on a "grass roots" level are assuming an isolationist attitude at a a time that we can ill afford such an attitude. With the interdependence of nations, particularly in the western world, western Europe, and North America we must continue to have liason not only with these nations, but with the nations in the southern hemisphere, China, and Russia particularly.

The United Nations and the role of the United States in this body was discussed and there was a great deal of sentiment for getting the United States out of the United Nations because of the amount of money that we are spending in support of the programs sponsored by the United Nations and also because the political structure within the United Nations has now changed and the 1-man, 1-vote rule is being applied even there and therefore the poorer nations could by coalition put us into bankruptcy.

The world food situation, population control, and the policies regarding the U.S. in these areas were also discussed. The U.S. has taken a position that population increase is directly related to the social conditions in the poorer and underdeveloped countries and therefore the role of the U.S., as it is being portrayed now, will be one of helping to raise the standard of living in order that they will have some incentive on controlling population. It goes without saying that the world food situation is directly related to the increase in population.

However the food situation is anticipated to become far worse before any significant decrease in population is achieved in the poorer and underdeveloped countries. It is difficult to find a basis for communications between a country which has a per-capita income of less than $150 per year and one which has more than $5,000 per-capita per year. The country with the smaller per-capita income naturally turns to us and says, "You have so much more than we do, why not exercise your Christian belief and share with us?"

We in the U.S. and particularly in North America have the largest area available for producing food and therefore the bulk of food production will lie with us for the entire world. I foresee a time based on the information that has been available to us through these conferences, that it may become necessary to use food as a bargaining tool in foreign policy. This would be a tragic event; however we are going to have to cause these nations, both poor and under-developed, to have a self-help program in order that any significant solutions of the world's problems can be had.

Failure to signal causes accidents

JEFFERSON CITY — Improper or failure to signal was a contributing cause in nearly 1,000 traffic accidents in Missouri last year, according to the Missouri State Highway Patrol.

Col. Sam S. Smith, superintendent of the Missouri State Highway Patrol, today stated that proper signaling by drivers can reduce traffic accidents and the deaths, injuries and property damage that result from these mishaps.

"It is imperative for the smooth and safe flow of traffic that drivers know what other drivers in the immediate traffic picture intend to do," Smith stated. "This communication between drivers can be accomplished by proper signaling. I urge all drivers to signal their intentions to stop, turn and slow down and to make them in plenty of time to allow other motorists to prepare for their movements."

Smith then pointed out that just as the proper use of signals can reduce the chances for accidents, the improper use of signals can just as certainly create hazards. One improper use of signals is that of relaying turn signals of other drivers. When a driver who intends to continue straight ahead comes upon another driver who is signaling for a turn, no signal should be given unless the turning driver will cause the other to slow or stop. If the situation calls for slowing or stopping the second driver should make the appropriate slow or stop signal.

"Communication among drivers through the proper use of signals is a must in this day of heavy and complex traffic," Smith concluded. "Each driver must know what the other will do. When communication between drivers breaks down, chaos and tragedy often follow."

Fund increase efforts await consideration

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Several efforts to increase funds for some state agency operations were awaiting consideration today when the House resumed its debzte of Missouri's $2 billion budget.

The House opened its initial debate of the measure funding most state agencies and elective offices Tuesday , departing for the first time from budget recommendatons made by its appropriations committee.

It sent the intial three of the eight budget bills, totaling $723 million, to the Senate without a change form the committee's recommendations.

But St. Louis Democrat Al Mueller won approval of his amendment increasing money for the State Division of Community Development over the objections of Appropriations Chairman James Russell of Florissant.

Increases in funds for two panels, the Missouri Elections Commission and the Commission on Human Rights, were also approved by the House but those modifications were supported by Russell.

Mueller was joined by a number of rural legislators in trying to restore funds cut from Gov. Christoperh S. Bond's request for the community development program. Those lawmakers cited the significant assistance that division had given to many of the small communities around the state in obtaining federal and state aid as well as in general community development.

The increased funding for the elections commission, although well below what that panel sought, would enable it to hire an attorney and an accountant-investigator as well as increase the money available for outside legal assistance.

Since it went into operation in January, the commission has been deluged with requests for clarification of the tough new campaign financing law, and its director Al Kemp said it needed the additional personnel to meet the demands being placed on it.

Opposition to the increase was slight, coming from some members who said it appeared the commission had done little to answer the questions arising from the law.

"I'm just concerned," said Canton Democrat Richard DeCoster, "That we're pouring money down a rat hole and getting the same thing in return."

Final approval of the first three appropriations bills funding the public debt, public school operations and the revenue department came on overwhelming votes. But Minority Floor Leader Robert Snyder took the opportunity to criticize the system used this sesssion to formulate the bills.

"The appropriations process this year has been a shambles," the Kirkwood Republican charged. ""It has been deliberately confused.

18-month-old baby found dead in crib

NEW MADRID--Natural causes were attributed for the death early this morning of 18-month-old Mary Joe Stevens, daughter of Janet Stevens, 16, of 910 Davis St. and Jacob M. Stevens of Pahokee, Fla., according to New Madrid County Coroner Gene Clayton.

The baby was found dead in bed about 4:55 a.m. by Tommy Calton, 20, when he made a routine check to see if the baby was all right, Clayton said.

The mother told investigating officers it was the habit of Calton, who lives with her, to get up during the night to check on the baby.

Clayton said that according to Mrs. Stevens, the child had had a cold and runny nose for about a week and had developed dysentery over the weekend.

The body is at Richards Funeral Home, where arrangements are incomplete.

County health agency to inspect meat sections

BENTON--The Scott County Health Department will routinely inspect meat departments of stores in the county since no other agency is responsible, Warren Manning, administrator of the health department, said Tuesday.

Manning said he had thought the Department of Agriculture checked to see if grocery stores and meat packing houses were meeting Food and Drug Administration guidelines, but recently discovered such inspections are not being made.

"We're going to branch out and push this routine inspection of meat departments," Manning said. "Some are far worse than any restaurant."

In the past month the health department has inspected 44 eating and drinking establishments, as well as several meat departments. Manning said a few firms did not meet specifications, but did not release the names.

"We try to work with them, give them a chance to improve," Manning said. "If they have made no improvement when we check them again, we're happy to release the names of the establishments," he said.

The frequency of inspection for a business depends upon the conditions found in prior checks. A restaurant which is sanitary and meets the guidelines may not be checked as often as one which is found to be substandard or has a history of problems.

There is no set time for the inspections, and no warning is given. "What would be the use of checking them if they knew we were coming and had a chance to clean up?" Manning said.

He said the inspectors usually receive cooperation from eating and drinking establishments, but that even if a place passes inspection one day, there is no guarantee it will be kept up to minimum standards.

"It could pass inspection in the morning, but by the afternoon it might not," Manning said.

The management is primarily responsible for keeping the restaurant clean. He cited the case of a restaurant that failed to pass inspection on one occasion but did pass after it had received a new manager a few weeks later.

Chain restaurants usually are pretty good in this respect, but even some well-known restaurants at times become lax, Manning said.

He also said the health department will, on a temporary basis, inspect private water and sewge systems in New Madrid County at a cost of $50 per inspection.

This is done with the understanding that it will not interfere with the department's work in Scott County.

South Vietnam surrenders to enemy forces

SAIGON (AP) — The Saigon government surrendered unconditionally today and Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops occupied the capital. At first the South Vietnamese stood in doorways and watched the troops pour into the city, then some began cheering.

Many former government soldiers turned in their arms and tried to lose themselves amid the civilian population. But there were periodic outbursts of gunfire — some from pockets of resistance and others from celebrating Viet Cong and North Vietnamese firing into the air.

A police colonel shot himself in front of the National Assembly building after walking up to an army memorial statue ad saluting. He died later in a hospital.

Some South Vietnamese pilots continued today to fly planeloads of relatives and other members of the armed forces to neighboring Thailand. Several thousand South Vietnamese fled the country by this route Tuesday.

And U.S. officials struggled with the logistics of resettling the estimated 45,000 South Vietnamese it helped evacuate from the country before the surrender. The end of official American presence in the country came late Tuesday.

People in Hanoi raced into the streets and embraced each other in a "a general explosion of joy," the Yugoslav news agency Tanjug reported. Flags were raised, and the North Vietnamese capital "became the noisiest and happiest city in the world."

"At 11:30 (a.m.) on April 30, 1975, the flag of the Provisional Revolutionary Government (PRG) of the Republic of South Vietnam fluttered above the palace of the puppet president and on other buildings in the city," declared Hanoi's Vietnam News Agency, in a broadcast monitored in Tokyo.

The broadcast reiterated that Saigon has been renamed Ho Chi Minh City in honor of the late North Vietnamese leader.

President Duong Van Minh announced his government's unconditional surrender in a broadcast at midmorning and ordered the South Vietnamese armed forces to turn in their arms. He was then picked up by North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops and taken to an unknown location.

Four hours later, a jeepload of North Vietnamese soldiers brought the 51-year-old retired general back to a microphne, and he appealed again to the government forces to give up.

Loud explosions were heard in the late afternoon in Saigon. They were repor ed aboard an ammunition barge burning in the Saigon River, but no dmage was reported in the city except at the U.S. Ebassy and other American buildings, which the Saigonese cleaned out after their former occupants were evacuated.

Soft drink machine keys taken

Keys to all Coca-Cola machines in Scott, New Madrid and Mississippi counties have been reported stolen, police said today.

The keys, about 100 of them, were taken from a pickup truck parked at the U. D. Wethington home, 117 Reuben St., between 8 p.m. Tuesday and 6 a.m. today.

Also taken from the truck were a tool box and assorted tools valued at $100

Police said the truck was locked at the time of the theft, but entry was gained by breaking a window.

Other thefts reported to police include the theft of an alternator from the Andy Tomlin garage, 108 W. Gladys St., between Friday and Monday. The alternator was valued at $60.

Dawn Gillian, 109 Taylor St., told police that a coffee pot, clock radio and watch were taken from her home between 2 a.m. Saturday and 6:15 p.m. Monday.

Miss Gillian told police she left her home after a fight with a boy friend and when she returned on Monday the items were gone.

13-year-old girl on bike hit by truck

A 13-year-old girl received minor cuts Tuesday afternoon when her bicycle was struck by a truck at the intersection of Airport Drive and East Malone Avenue.

Police said Marcia Lynn Thompson, 200 Dona St., had stopped her bicycle on the right side of a city-owned dump truck on Airport Drive.

The truck driver, John Dee Moore, 26, of 1518 Matthews Ave., made a right turn onto Malone Avenue and the right rear wheel rolled over the bicycle.

Police said the girl was not seriously injured and no arrests were made.

Plans to close road denied

Bill Moore, member of the Levee District No. 2 board of commissioners, flatly denied Tuesday that the Commerce levee road was closed or that the board has any plans to close the road. The board members include Paul Stricker of Lusk Chapel, Garland Buck of Commerce and Moore, 5 Cotton Trace, Sikeston.

A committee of Commerce residents, composed of Lawrence Pobst, Bill Beardslee, George Hopper and Frank Glaus, complained to the Scott County Court Monday that the Levee board was attempting to close the road and that fencing was already being installed.

The court pointed out that if it is a legally dedicated county road, only the county Court can close it after conducting a public hearing.

"We are not trying to close the road," Moore said Tuesday. "The road would never be closed without a public hearing. There's never been any thought of closing the road without a public hearing and there's never been any decision made to close the road."

Asked about the fencing, Moore said a fence has been installed on land leased by Herb Burger, at his request, because some persons have driven onto his land, which they're not supposed to do.

The committee from Commerce told the County Court Monday that the levee board reportedly planned to install a gate on the road to keep it closed, but Moore said, "There's been no decision to put up a gate." Even if there was, he said a public hearing would have to be set up, which would have to be cleared with the County Court before a hearing could be held.

He said he wasn't even sure a gate could be set up on the ground.

CB radios taken in 1-block radius

BENTON--Three citizens band radios and an FM radio were stolen from three cars in a one-block radius Tuesday night, Scott County Sheriff John Dennis said today.

A citizens band radio and the FM radio , valued at $200, were stolen from a car owned by Richard Urhahn. The other two citizens band radios, valued at $150 each, were stolen from cars owned by Albert Bollinger Jr. and Joe Stuckey.

Dennis said the Urhahn car also received extensive damage, but that no other details were available since deputies were still investigating the thefts, which occurred sometime between midnight and 5:30 a.m. today.

In explaining the reason for so many thefts of radios in one night, Dennis said, "There's a good market for them."

Emergency funding bill in limbo

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Senate and House appropriations committee chairmen exchanged stubborn letters Tuesday, leaving negotiations over a $35 million emergency funding bill in limbo.

A witness immunity bill also became bogged down in a Senate committee while a tax relief for the elderly measure advanced and a Senate-approved judicial revision plan underwent House committee scrutiny.

Rep. James Russell, D-Florissant, who heads the House money panel, accused Senate appropritaions chief Norman Merrell of a "certain disinterest in the welfare of Missouri citizens" in a letter after Merrell led a walkout of senators at a conference meeting Monday.

Merrell, D-Monticello, responded by letter to the charges by saying the emergency funding bill "contains few real emergencies" and that further meetings with House members "would accomplish nothing." Russell had requested another meeting for Tuesday night.

The Senate appropriation panel members walked out on the House conferees after locking horns over a $278,000 mobile cancer detection program which Merrell said is untried and possibly dangerous, but which Russell supported.

The emergency bill is designed to keep state agencies operating until the next fiscal year begins July 1.

State Budget Director Mark Edelman said if the bill is not approved, about 1,000 state workers might not get paid in June and no more funds will be left to buy prison food supplies. But he added the food suppliers might keep up shipments on credit until July 1.

Besides the cancer detection program, the two sides differ on plans to build new prisons and provide tax relief for the elderly. They have agreed, however, on a $6.2 million appropriations for a University of Missouri-St. Louis optometry school.

Another bill providing more tax relief for the elderly was recommended by the Senate Ways and Means Committee.

That bill, a substitute for a measure approved in the House, lifts the maximum income to receive the tax advantages to $8,500 per year for the elderly.

The witness immunity bill took a step back as the Senate Criminal Jurisprudence Committee decided to reconsider it after only approving it Monday.

The vote to reconsider was spurred by Senate Majority Leader Lawrence Lee, who opposes it but was not present at the meeting where the House-approved measure was recommended to the Senate floor.

After gaing the move to reconsider, Lee successfully called for adjournemnt of the committee meeting, leaving the bill unresolved. The bill would compel witnesses to testify in cases where they might incriminate themselves, but would shield them from prosection for their court statements.

The House Judiciary Committe heard Chief Justice Robert Donnelly of the Misssouri Supreme Court Support a measure revising Missouri's court structure.

Donnelly said the proposed constituional amendment would "take out rigidity and put in some flexibility" to more evenly spread the workload of judges by expanding jurisdictions of lower court judges.

But rural committee members were skeptical, calling the measure already approved in the Senate "elitist" and saying there has been no public outcry for court revision.

The plan, which must be approved by voters to become effective, would eliminate certain courts, allow for more nonpartisan judges and replace magistrate court judges with associate circuit judges. It also would establish municipal court judges who would be required to be lawyers to hear cases involving city ordinances.

HOW TO SLANT THE NEWS

We are grateful to one of our compatriots for calling attention to a recent editorial in the Cincinnati (Ohio) Enquirer which effectively illustrates why readers have a legitimate complaint against some newspapers for "slanting" the news.

To quote the Enquirer:

"From the time Chile's Marxist president, Salvador Allende, was toppled from power and assassinated in September, 1973, the most persistent of the resultant myths has been that the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) was somehow his executioner. Indeed, the allegations nurtured by Allende's mourners in the United States and around the world undoubtedly have been a factor in mustering support for a full-scale inquiry into the CIA..."

"Curiously enough, the New York Times Seymour Hersh, the original publicizer of the My Lai massacre and, more recently, the exposer of a wave of accusations involving CIA domestic surveillance, devoted himself to a quiet inquiry into the CIA's role in Allende's ultimate downfall.

"In an interview with New York's Village Voice, Mr. Hersh said ...

'I spent an incredible amount of work — dozens of interviews — digging into a number of allegations by a number of people that the American military was directly involved in the overthrow of Allende. I did a lot of work and I couldn't find it. It's just not true; in other words, it's not there."

And what was Mr. Hersh's reaction to this legitimate news story? This is what he told the Village Voice:

"I'm not going to write that story; it's kaput."

Thus is revealed in all its nakedness, the policy which is not only followed by Mr. Hersh, but by other editors and writers at the New York Times; if a story reflects unfavorably, against the United States, you suppress it. You simply don't report it. You print what is wrong, or alleged to be wrong, about America; you do not report that which is right about America.

Commented the Cincinnati Enquirer: "It would have been worthwhile, in our view, if Mr. Hersh had written 'that story' — to demonstrate, once and for all, the falsity of some of the allegations."

It would also have tended to reestablish public confidence in the reliability of the New York Times — a confidence, which, alas, people in the know have long lost in the paper that "prints all the news that fits."

Had she also been the last, American workers would get a pay raise of almost $80 billion a year (over 25 per cent of the federal budget is from Social Security taxes), which they could invest in private pension plans to receive three to four times the benefits they will eventually receive when the Federal Government taxes their children and grandchildren to take care of them.

One of our Boot Strappers called this military item to our attention, suggesting that it probably got lost in the flood of other news.

The federal budget calls for a net increase in defense spending of $8 billion, but because most of this is eaten up by manpower costs and inflation, the Russians will still spend more in equivalent dollars in essential areas.

In U. S. prices, Defense Secretary James Schlesinger told the Senate Armed Services Committee recently, the Soviets "now devote more resources than the United States in most of the significant categories of defense. In overall research and development, they outstrip us by 20 per cent; in general purpose forces by 20 per cent; in procurement by 25 per cent; and in nuclear offensive forces by 60 per cent."

What is more, said Schlesinger, "we are now beginning to witness in the Soviet Union the largest initial deployment of improved strategic capabilities in the history of the nuclear competition."

If you can understand history, you can visualize what is ahead -- unless we are prepared and ready.

Crime And Responsibility

The schools, the communications media and the business community should be forced to share legal responsibility for the antisocial and criminal behavior of youth, says a critic.

According to John Lyon, writing in U. S. Catholic magazine, society unfairly forces families to bear the leal burden of responsibility for adolescent behavior "when agencies outside the home have had a decisive role in shaping the character and behavior patterns of youth."

While acknowledging that the chief responsibility is with parents, it is hard to imagine, he says, that "drug use, shoplifting, larceny and felonious behavior would be taught-or learned -in most homes."

From another quarter, two researchers charge that sociologists are suffering from a "person-blame" bias-the tendency to hold individuals -rather than the system, responsible for the individual's problems.

"If we view delinquents as persons who follow extralegal paths to socially valued goals, when the conventionally approved paths are barred to them, we would advocate system-change remedies," says Nathan Caplan and Stephen D. Nelson of the University of Michigan.

There is, of course, a lot of truth in these arguments. Every parent is aware of how much more powerful the influence of outside factors, expecially peer-group pressures, is on their children than values taught at home-if values are taught in the home. And young people who run afoul of the law have in all too many cases know nothing but blame and failure in their lives.

But the trouble with this kind of reasoning is that if the individual is not, as some, point, to be held responsible for his bad behavior, if it is always society's fault, the "system's" fault, then neither is the individual to be praised for his good behavior.

If those who "follow extralegal paths to socially valued goals," are to be held blameless because the legal paths are barred to them, then those who do follow the legal paths can taken no credit for their achievements.

In other words, if it is the "system's" failure in the one case, then logically it should be called the "system's" success in the other.

A not-so-funny thing has been happening on the way to a more perfect society. We hear everything about individual rights, but nothing about indivdiaul responsibilities. Yet crime, delinquence and antisocial behavior grow steadily more prevalent.

In our emphasis on what society owes to individuals and our de-emphasis on what individuals owe society, we actually depreciate the worth of the individual-and what is society but a collection of individuals!? By holding out no high standards, no high expectations, to individuals, we invite the very substandard society we are lamenting.

To be sure, the "system" has much to answer for. We chuck lawbreakers away in prison for varying periods of time, rarely requiring them to make restitution oto their victims-or, indeed, making it possible for them to do so even it they wanted to.

Then we set them loose again and in most states deny ex-cons the exercise of such a basic civic responsibility as the right to vote-a practice which the U.S. Supreme Court itself upheld last year.

And we wonder why "rehabilitation" is so seldom successful.

This problem of crime and delinquency needs much more intelligent effort than it has been getting if it is not to be our undoing. But rather than trying to assess blame, laying it all on the individual on the one hand and all on society on the other, we should begin to recognize that responsibility is a two-way street and begin to demand the best from both individuals and society.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
Marcos Rejects Mercy Plea

By JACK ANDERSON
with
Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — The mother of the Philippines' imprisoned opposition leader, Sen. Benigno S. Aquino Jr., expects her son to die.

She still calls him "Ninoy," his childhood nickname. "My heart is full of anguish," she writes. "We believe Ninoy has no chance ... For freedom, for justice, for truth, he will die."

Her letter was smuggled out of the Philippines and delivered to me by relatives, who appealed to me to intervene with President Ferdinand Marcos to save Aquino's life.

The outspoken, 42-year-old opposition leader has been charged with murder and subversion. He swears the charges were trumped up to stop him from criticizing the Marcos dictatorship.

Marcos used to be my friend before he seized dictatorial powers. When I visited Manila, I would drop by Malacanang, the presidential place, for dinner with him and his wife, Imelda. On my last visit, the lovely Imelda took my wife and daughters on a sightseeing-shopping tour.

Marcos has a quick smile and an easy manner. But a sudden earnestness would overtake him when he spoke about his dream for the Philippines. He would talk about breaking the power of the wealthy oligarchs and freeing his people from economic bondage. He wanted to make the Philippines, he would say, "a country of equals."

It was hard to doubt his sincerity.

Invoking our past friendship, I sent Marcos a personal message through the Philippine embassy. I urged him to free his rival as a humanitarian gesture and let him come to the United States.

I have just received President Marcos' reply. "I wish to thank you," he cabled, "for your kind thoughts and friendly feelings for us conveyed to me through our Philippine ambassador in Washington. I welcome your desire to discuss with me directly the case of former Senator Aquino ... "

But the president, citing the "pending serious charges" against his chief critic, concluded: "It is therefore necessary to allow termination of trial of these cases and related court preceedings."

In my message, I had mentioned the family's fear that Aquino might be executed. Responded Marcos: "It is my hope that you will not listen or give credence to an alleged plot to liquidate former Senator Aquino as mentioned in your cable, for it has no basis in fact."

Then he added a comment, which struck me as ominous. The prosecution has charged that several witnesses against Aquino have been mysteriously murdered. "If he is released," suggested Marcos, "he might be killed by relatives of (the murdered) witnesses."

When a dictator advertises in advance that his chief opponent may be killed by unidentified enemies, it has the smell of a set-up. Aquino, you see, had a perfect alibi; he couldn't have killed the witnesses. He happened to be safely in custody when the witnesses were allegedly done in. Therefore, the vengeful relatives, whom Marcos suggests may now try to kill Aquino, would be waylaying the wrong man.

The witnesses against Aquino are captured guerrillas who have agreed to testify for the state in return for their own freedom. "They go around in flashy cars," Aquino's mother charges in her handwritten letter. "And to think these killers' words have weight against a legislator of the land in his New Society."

She contends that feelers were sent to her son "that if he signs statements endorsing martial law and the New Society, everything will be dropped, he will be released.

"But ... true to his forebears, he can die for his convictions. He believes in the freedom of man and his dignity, and no one can enslave anybody."

In protest, Aquino has gone on a hunger strike. "This hunger strike," writes his mother, "he has mulled this over and over, believing perhaps it will awaken our fearful people.

"I really don't know what to do. As a mother, I am 'sorrowful unto death.' Please do something for us here."

The cable from President Marcos was followed by a detailed memorandum, which the Philippine embassy delivered to my office. "The government has afforded full protection to the rights of the accused," it states. "All the requirements of due process have been observed in the investigation, filing and hearing of the serious charges against (Aquino)...

"It should be emphasized that the charges were filed only after a very thorough investigation and evaluation of the evidence and after the finding of prima facie evidence supportive of the charges and specifications."

I cannot forget the Ferdinand Marcos used to talk to me about freedom, democracy and equality. There is decency and compassion in him. Perhaps it isn't too late. These human qualities may yet prevail and Aurora Aquino's son may be saved.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Inside White House:
Hard-Hat Time
In the Cabinet Room

WASHINGTON - It was hard-hat hour in the White House cabinet room last Tuesday afternoon. For the 17 powerful construction union chiefs there, it was mini-mini-rally for work and bread for their one million jobless followers. For Jerry Ford, one insider saw it as the first, albeit minuscule, presidential mobilization of forces for the '76 campaign.

Fact is that these leaders of some 3.5 million AFL-CIO hard hats got a little black coffee and lots of sympathy. They had come with a packet of demands at about five p.m., after lobbying the Hill all day in one of the most intensive pressuring drives ever to hit Congress by men who are perfectionists in low profiles.

And not the least of the lobbyits (though he didn't join them in the cabinet room) was their chief of chiefs, construction - oriented George Meany. He told a House Public Works Committee this nation could, and should, "take a $100 billion deficit." That would make jobs. Especially said he, if those "damned environmentalists" stopped interfering.

Then he went down the Hill. And later the general presidents went over to sit with Jerry Ford, Housing and Urban Development's Carla Hills, Office of Management and Budget's Jim Lynn, who has been wooing a labor leader or two; Labor Secretary John Dunlop, energy chief Frank Zarb and some staffers.

And the backslapping, gung ho, first- name- calling Vice President, Nelson A. Rockefeller.

The hard hats' packet of demands what you'd expect -- requests for release of impounded billions, sparking of new construction, building of 130 power plants and ouster of illega aliens -- the whole bit, which they said would trigger recovery.

As they went around the big table, Mr. Ford listened and responded to each labor leader. In effect, he said, the steps have been taken to beat back the recession. And he was worried about what this would do to inflation.

He was quiet, in sharp contrast to the ebullience of his Vice President. No longer was Jerry Ford the amateur. He knew his people -- and some by first name.. He nodded when they said they were builders, not destroyers.

Hovering over all this intense economic discussion were subtle political innuendos. If Jerry Ford does run, he believes he can count on those labor chiefs around that cabinet table to support him. A powerful national machine, theirs. They've some 10,000 locals; 399 city central organizations and 33 AFL-CIO state Building and Construction Trades Councils. One of their unions, the carpenters, has a million members.

Despite all this, the 17 powerful labor chiefs had difficulty getting in -- though they had the conference all set up. Somebody had dis-geared the old White House.

In Dick Nixon's day, one call and he'd have met them at the portico. It took a Building and Construction Trades Department official six calls to the White House just to learn whom to call to learn what gates to use and who would clear them. And at 2:30 p.m. they were told, don't bring photographers. And so there were no individual shots taken of each union general president standing shaking hands with the President of the U. S. It was amateur afternoon at the White House.

But not in the cabinet room. Youngish construction department president Robert Georgine said, in effect, we are the kind of people who like to work out problems and persuade people; we are not given to big outdoor demonstrations; we are here to work things out, thanks for seeing us.

Responded the President -- "I understand that and I am delighted to see you. I know you are not that kind of people. So I have all afternoon."

They did stay 75 minutes.

Georgine's reference was to the April 26 outdoor marches and Kennedy stadium mass demonstration sponsored by the AFL-CIO's Industrial Union Department led by big steel labor's I.W. (Abe) Abel. The militants had this one organized long ago. For weeks the participants' labor press has been roaring against "Ford's recession."

Meany had sent them word that he was not yet ready to "man the barricades." And that he would not speak. Thus, to be evenhanded, labor's own Mr. Stonewall regretfully also passed up, for the first time in memory, a chance to talk to the 3,000 construction workers' officials who rallied in the Washington Hilton on Monday (April 21) and went up the Hill in fleets of buses on Tuesday.

Politics is the art of hanging loose as long as possible. And in this, Meany is a crafty artisan. He and his construction workers are neutral -- now. But for whom they'll be neutral next year is another thing.

It is worth noting that the construction trades chiefs, who went Republican last time, talked the recession over quietly inside the cabinet room -- instead of ripping Jerry Ford over the rock-him-and- roll him outdoor mikes.

This week was prologue.

New waste disposal compliance deadline

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Senate Tuesday moved toward taking the teeth out of a 1972 waste disposal law by removing most counties from its requirements and setting back the law's compliance deadline.

The Senate also took up consideration of a bill outlawing certain types of billboards while the House turned back a measure to curb harassing debt collectin practices, but tentatively approve a compensation boost for jurors.

The controversial 1972 waste law, which required each county and city to submit garbage disposal plans to the state by last June 30, would be changed under the bill sponsored by Sen. Robert Young, D-St. Ann, to have a plan deadline of Jan. 1, 1976. Most counties missed the original deadline.

Before Young's bill was tentatively approved, however, an amendment was added to exempt all but St. Louis and Jackson counties from its provisions as well as all towns with less than 500 population.

The change was offered by Se,. Emory Melton, R-Cassville, who said the law has been driving private trash haulers out of business while providing more jobs for state bureaucrats.

But Young said Melton's amendment puts Missouri back in the same situation it was in before the law was passed and suggested people will probably start dumping garbage in the counties again.

Sen. William Waters, D-Liberty, said Melton's amendment, which passed 17-14, takes the law from "one extreme to the other."

The bill still faces final Senate passage before being sent to the House.

The billboard measure, also sponsored by Young, is aimed at preventing about $11 million in federal funds from being withdrawn from state highway funds because Missouri does not meet federal billboard standards.

The bill would outlaw billboards erected more than 660 feet from highways in sight of motorists. But the signs still would be allowed in cities larger than 5,000 and in rural areas that are commercially zoned.

The debt collection bill defeated in the House prohibits debt collectors from using profane or obscene language, misrepresenting themselves, making threats, crating unneccessary expenses or otherwise harassing consumers.

Before the bill was defeated by a 68-73 vote, it was amended to exempt debts on real property from the limitations.

Rep. James Riley, D-Richmond Heights, the measure's sponsor who said he will seek to have the bill reconsidered, charged that the bill was defeated by House members because "too many of them are in small business or own property."

The juror compensation bill, which still faces final House passage before going to the Senate, requires employers to make up the difference of a jurors' regular pay and the $6 per day compensation he receives while on jury duty. The employer payment could be used as a tax credit.

Chapter women honored

Girls of the Year named at banquet

Four local chapters of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority each chose their Girl of the Year Tuesday at a founder's day banquet in the Ramada Inn, celebrating the sorority's 44th anniversary.

The Girl of the Year award is based on extraordinary service within the chapter and each chapter votes for its choice.

Tau Chapter selected Delores Comer, 318 Virginia St., as its Girl of the Year. She is presently the chapter president and has held the positions of vice president and corresponding secretary.

In addition, she has held about 10 offices in the Order of the Eastern Star, including matron, is vice president of the Hiway Wives, treasurer of the First United Methodist Church and secretary of the Heritage House Board of Directors and Nutrition Board.

She works part-time at the Heritage House and is a volunteer worker for Southeast Missouri Transporation System.

Mrs. Comer enjoys being a club member because "it gives me an opportunity to serve others, meet other women in the community and broaden my outlook on life."

She is the wife of Guy B. Comer. They have two children, Greg, 28 and Geoffrey, 23.

From Xi Zeta Alpha Chapter, Mary Ann Maevers, 922 Hawthorne Drive, was chosen. She is presently chapter vice president and was recording and corresponding secretary and membership and publicity chairwoman.

Mrs. Maevers feels the award is a worthy one because "it is an added incentive for each member to work harder during the year."

She is the wife of Arlen L. Maevers and they have two children, Sheri, 17 and Ellen, 16.

Mrs. Maevers has a bachelor of science and masters degrees in elementary education from Southeast Missouri State University at Cape Girardeau. She teaches at Southwest Elementary School.

In addition, she is a member of the Daughters of Isabella and the ladies' softball team and a past president and vice president of the Community Teachers Association and a past president of Southwest District Elementary Teachers.

For the second time, Dorothy Scott, 1030 N. Kingshighway, has been selected Girl of the Year. She is a member of Xi Epsilon Zeta Chapter and is its program chairwoman, librarian and photographer.

Her other awards include Woman of Achievement from the Business & Professional Women's Club and the Harvest Award from the Women's Committee of the Sikeston Chamber of Commerce.

Past positions in Xi Epsilon Zeta are as president, secretary, treasurer, director and chairwoman of numerous committees. She is a charter member of Tau Chapter and also a charter member and co-organizer of Xi Epsilon Zeta.

Mrs. Scott is a private secretary and assistant to her husband, R. Clint Scott, in his business, Scott Office Equipment. The couple have two children, Mrs. Joseph Bilbrey of Granite City, Ill., and Don F. Scott of Webster Groves.

She and her husband, Tom, are the parents of Julie, 7 and Alison, 2½. In addition, she manages Lamberts Apartments and has attended SeMo State University.

Why is the Girl of the Year Award special? "Because to win this award, you really have to work."

New fabrics:

Polyesters prove versatile

By JEWEL GRADY

Polyester is probably the most versatile fiber with the fewest limitations in end use of all the manmade fibers.

It was made available to U.S. consumers in small quantitites in 1951. It came into widespread use in 1953 and since that time it has become one of the most desirable and used synthetic fibers.

Polyester employs its talents in a great variety of fabrics for apparel and home furnishings, fillings for ski jackets, robes, bedspreads and wherever resilience and soft, fluffy, lightweight warmth are wanted. Floor covering such as polyester fiber carpets are another major use of the fiber.

CHARACTERISTICS OF POLYESTER:

Resilient -- resists wrinkling and has good recovery if wrinkles occur.

Shape retentative-- fabrics resist stretching or sagging even in moist weather.

Aesthetically pleasing -- can vary from silk-like to worsted-like fabric.

Washable

Low moisture absorbancy - - quick drying, resistant to water stains. Uncomfortable to some people because of low absorbancy.

Electrostatic -- attracts lint unless treated with an antistatic finish or fabric softener.

Care of polyester:

Hang tags and labels containing care instructions are usually included with garments and should be followed.

For articles which can be laundered the following general procedure is recommended:

...Pretreat heavily soiled area by scrubbing with detergent and soft brush.

...Launder whites separately.

...Use warm water (hot water sets wrinkles in spinning), detergent plus fabric softener in final rinse.

...Dry at low setting in a tumble dry (removing as soon as dry) or hang wet garment to drip dry.

...If pressing is necessary, use steam or dry at rayon, synthetic or wash-and-wear setting.

Sewing Hints:

1. Tension -- In most cases it is necessary to use a loose yet well balanced tension.

2. Thread -- Polyester thread is stronger and gives with fabric. Thread won't shrink when laundered, causing less puckered seams.

3. Needles -- Ballpoint needles have been designed for use with synthetic fibers or select a sharp new needle, size 11.

4. Sewing polyester knit -- For extra stretch on a zig-zag machine, use a narrow zig-zag stitch. On straight- stitching machines, adjust the tension and stitch length to handle the knit.

5. Join pieces of fabric -- if the top piece of fabric comes out longer when the seam has been stitched, the pressure of the presser foot on the fabric is probably too heavy and needs to be decreased.

6. Stitch length -- This varies with the polyester fabric. The recommended range is between 8 to 12 stitches per inch.

Ann Landers

List provides happy marriage rules

Dear Ann Landers: A long while back you printed some Rules For a Happy Married Life. We moved recently and I lost that column. Will you please run it again? I want to have it hand-printed by a professional and give it to my son and his wife for their first anniversary. Thank you, Ann.--Louisiana Booster

Dear Booster: Here it is--and thanks for asking.

Rules for A Happy Married Life

1. Never both be angry at once.

2. Never yell at each other unless the house is on fire.

3. Yield to the wishes of the other as an exercise in self-discipline if you can't think of a better reason.

4. If you have a choice between making yourself look good or your mate--choose your mate.

5. If you have any criticism, make it lovingly.

6. Never bring up a mistake of the past.

7. Neglect the whole world rather than each other.

8. Never let the day end without saying at least one complimentary thing to your life's partner.

9. Never meet without an affectionate welcome.

10. Never go to bed mad.

11. When you've made a mistake, talk it out and ask for forgiveness.

12. Remember, it takes two to make an argument. The one who is wrong is the one who will be doing most of the talking.

Dear Ann Landers: Here's a suggestion for "Desperate Wife" whose husband considers himself a "controlled alcoholic" and continues to drink. Having been married to one, I know what a distorted image those people have of themselves. They are in no position to evaluate their behavior--nor do they have the faintest notion of how they come acoss to others.

I hope "Desperate Wife" will rent or borrow a tape recorder and turn it on when her "controlled alcoholic" becomes sarcastic and argumentative. When he is sober she can then play it back to him. Maybe THEN he'll get the message.--Been In Her Boots

Dear Boots: Thanks for a good suggestion. It might make the difference. Let's hope so.

Dear Ann Landers: Please print this Open Letter To All Women's Libbers. It's time somebody spoke up.

There are approximately 109 million women in the United States. Some of them MUST be traditionalists.

I am incensed because of the discrimation against the housewife. The woman who handles a job at an office as well as one at home is viewed as Super-Dame. If she is "only" a housewife and mother, she is made to feel that somehow she is inferior, lazy or copping out.

If a woman wishes to choose a job at home, let her be allowed to do so with pride, not shame or a feeling of inadequacy. There are plenty of rewards in being a good wife and the mother of three children. I don't want an outside job. So please, Libbers, leave me alone.-- Content With My Lot

Dear C.: Thanks for your letter. I've had several from others who said the same thing, but you said it best.

There is a big difference between cold and cool. Ann Landers shows you how to play it cool without freezing people out in her booklet, "Tenn-Age-Sex--Ten Ways to Cool It."

Businesswomen hired to meet company quotas

BOSTON (AP) — Women graduating from Harvard Business School this year say they expect to get good jobs but many are worried about discrimination despite the quotas of women and minorities that some companies indicate they seek.

"There is a myth going around that if you're a woman here you don't have any problems," said Judy Cronin, one of the 87 women students in the school's class of 802. "But when the offers are in and the money is on the table, I'll be surprised if the women do as well as the men."

She said she believes because of the recession companies can't afford to consider quotas.

"Everyone needs the most capable people these days," she said. "If the ones they hire happen to be from governmentally required groups, then they are even more delighted."

Despite the current recession, there doesn't appear to be any reduction in the number of recruiters from industry on campus.

But the women students are wary of being hired as part of a quota need rather than because they are qualified.

"They are often not very tactful,"' said Elyse Gansfried. "Some interviewers make it very obvious that they have quota to fill."

Marsha Allen, a first year student who is black, is looking for summer work in marketing. "Often the companies come right out and say, 'We are looking for women and minorities, but your qualifications make you attractive even without those other factors,' " she said. "But it is really hard to tell they are being sincere. The only way to know is just to go to work for them and see."

The women students said they are very conscious of the possibility they might be hired by a company which has not come around to the idea of women executives yet.

"I don't want to enter a company where there is a chance that my career will be stifled because someone above me cannot deal with women managers," said Madelaine Pfau.

She said she has been looking for jobs in heavy industry in the Southwest.

Whether the weather is ready for spring or not, you are, so put some springy notes into menus. For dinner tonight, serve eggs goldenrod with a lunchmeat platter, and succulent spears of new asparagus.

Cooking Up

By CHERIE BLANTON

Oh boy, it looks like summer is finally on it's way and none too soon as far as I'm concerned. One thing that is always attractive to me when hot weathr arrives is a good salad. So, today I'm going to give you four that sound delicious to me.

Here is a cranberry salad from the Mecklem sisters of New Madrid and their fame as good cooks is known far and wide.

CRANBERRY SALAD

Grind 1 pound of cranberries, 2 oranges and one lemon

Mix with:

1½ cups of sugar
1 cup chopped pecans
1 tsp. salt
1 cup chopped celery

Add 1 package lemon jello, mix well and refrigerate.

Like a salad that is a little tart and refreshing?

OLIVE SALAD

Mix one package of lemon jello in one cup boiling water, then one cup cold water Add:

½ cup chopped pecans
½ jar sliced stuffed olives, (small jar)
½ cup diced celery
½ cup white grapes

Refrigerate.

Barbara Hambrick is always giving me great recipes and here is her last salad she gave me.

BARBARA'S SALAD

Cream together:

1-8 ounce package cream cheese
2 Tbsp. mayonnaise
2 Tbsp. pineapple juice

Add:

2 cups grapes
1 cup crushed drained pineapple
1½ cups miniature marshmallows

Mix and add a small carton of cool whip and refrigerate.

Are you a fan of oranges with their refreshing flavor?

DUMP SALAD

Dump together, mix and refrigerate:

1-8 ounce package creamed cottage cheese
1 package pineapple, orange jello
1 can mandarin oranges (do not drain)
1 cup pineapple chunks, drain
2 cups cool whip

If you are strictly a tossed salad eater, here is an excellent new dressing I tried out the other night.

CREAMY FRENCH

Mix and serve on lettuce (the more goodies you throw in like croutons, etc. the better your salads will be).

¼ cup corn oil
¾ cup real mayonnaise
¼ cup red wine
1½ Tbsp. sugar
1 Tbsp. paprika
1 Tbsp dry mustard
¾ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. garlic salt

Cold cream study points out similarity

Do you know the difference between a lubricating cream, a moisturizer, a conditioning cream, a dry skin cream and a night cream?

According to a book of questions and answers prepared in consultation with members of the American Medical Association's committee on cutaneous health and cosmetics, all of these products are basically identical. The difference is in the physical characteristics of each. And, surprisingly, most are essentially variations of the basic cold cream formula modified to provide emollient instead of cleansing effects.

A moisturizing cream that is intended for day-time use and under make-up is likely to have a consistency that is lightweight and nongreasy. "The primary purpose of an emollient is to prevent or counteract the symptoms and signs of dryness of the skin and thus smooth and soften the skin," it is noted.

However, "it is now known that neither externally applied oils nor the skin's natural oils can keep the skin soft and flexible without the aid of water."

Modern types of skin cleansers now come in liquid form, and contain a number of emollients to soften and protect the skin, and are used with warm or cold water. These kinds of modern skin cleansers have also been formulated to cleanse skin thoroughly and to easily remove popular cosmetics and the residue of air pollutants.

To May Good Friends of Sikeston

I certainly appreciate the unexpected and most welcome honor that I received Thursday night, April 24, as Sikeston Chamber of Commerce MAN OF THE YEAR

On behalf of myself and my family, I want to thank all my friends from the bottom of my heart, for their expressions and congratulations, and to say that without the support and spirit of the good people of Sikeston, none of this could be possible.

For a better Sikeston to enjoy and raise our families, I am

Player Periscope's first report on Southeast Missouri's minor league baseball players shows the pitchers struggling and Gary Blaylock of Malden leading the California Class A league in home runs and runs battled in.

Blaylock, who sat out most of last season after suffering an injury, is back in action for the Visalia, Calif. Mets and is batting .241 with seven hits in 29 times at bat, including a double three home runs and nine RBI's.

Mark Littell of Gideon is the only pitcher to have performed respectably so far in the young campaign. The fireballing righthander is also attempting to make a comeback after an injury last season.

Littell, playing for the Omaha Royals in the Class AAA American Association has lost his only game, working nine innings, allowing six hits and four walks while fanning three. His earned run mark stands at a 3.00.

Puxico's Galen McSpadden, playing for the Padres Reno, Nev., class A club has worked one inning and allowed two hits while fashioning a 9.00 ERA.

Randy Smith of Arbyrd is playing in the Texas class AA league for the El Paso Angels. After 12 innings of work, the lefty has allowed 15 hits and three walks while fanning nine. He has a 6.75 ERA.

While on the subject of baseball, we understand that Rick Eisenbach has won himself a starting position on Southeast Missouri State University's baseball team. He has sat the bench most of the season and was finally given a chance during the closing weeks of the campaign. We're glad that he's gotten a chance to show his skills.

A little league baseball meeting will be held Thursday at the Sikeston field house, beginning at 7 p.m. All managers and coaches are urged to turn in their old uniforms at that time.

TURKEY FACTS

Missouri hunters have bagged about 3,400 wild turkeys in the first seven days of the two week spring season.

The largest number of birds have been shot in Ste. Genevieve County with 194. Other leading counties are Texas with 174, Crawford 147, Washington 146, Dent 133, Adair 127 and Howell 100.

Only bearded birds are in season, which runs through May 4.

The largest turkey recorded was a 22½ pound gobbler downed in Cole County by Celo Scheperle, Russellville.

TENT CAMPING

If you've always wanted to go tent camping, but didn't know the difference between a tent pole and a tent stake, the Missouri State Park system has a special program just for you. Now in its second year, the state parks' "Learn to Camp" program is designed to introduce Missouri families to tent camping with a maximum of enjoyment and a minimum of mistakes. And its won't cost you a fortune!

In cooperation with the Wenzel Corporation, the Missouri Department of Natural Resources, Division of Parks and Recreation will provide tents, dining canopies, cots, lanterns, camp stoves, and cooking grates. Also, an experienced camp programmer will teach you how to put up a tent, how to cook outdoors, and other camping skills.

"Learn to Camp" sessions will run for 10 weeks from June 9 to August 15. Each session will last 3 days and 2 nights from Monday to Wednesday or Wednesday to Friday. Each family must provide their own personal supplies and food. Lists of recommended supplies and groceries will be mailed to participants when reservations are received.

This year's program will be offered at three parks: Washington State Park, 55 miles south of St. Louis on Missouri 21; Wallace State Park, 50 miles north of Kansas City east of Interstate 35; and Pomme de Terre State Park, 60 miles north of Springfield west of U.S. 65.

Cost to each family willl be minimal, based on $3 per night for the regular campsite fee, plus a $3 program fee. Total cost is $9 per family for the entire session. The park superintendent will collect the regular campsite fee each evening at the campsite. The $3 program fee should accompany your reservation form.

For additional information and reservations forms, write: "Learn to Camp," Division of Parks and Recreation, P. O. Box 176, Jefferson City, Mo. 65101.

I-SC beats Bears

Rick Sample fashioned a two hitter, striking out nine Greenville Bears on the way to a 7-1 victory in opening round action of the class A district playoffs at Illmo-Scott City Monday afternoon.

Coach Bill Wilthong's Rams jumped out to a 3-0 lead in the second as Ray Campbell connected for a three run homer. Steve Hanschen doubled home a pair of runs in the fifth when the team scored four more runs after Greenville had closed the margin to 3-1 with a single tally in the third. I-SC collected nine hits on the afternoon.

The victory was the seventh in nine games this season for the Rams and it was the fourth without a defeat for right handed Sample.

I-SC entertains Chaffee in regular season play this afternoon and resumes district playoff action Thursday against Meadow Heights.

FOOTBALL

MONTREAL — Ed George, the Canadian Football League's offensive lineman of the year in 1974, was acquired from the Montreal Alouettes by the Baltimore Colts of the National Football League.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Bob Maddox, reserve lineman for the Cincinnati Bengals of the National Football League, had charges of assault and battery dropped against him Tuesday at the request of a 22-year-old television camerawoman who claimed Maddox shovd a heavy camera into her face.

Maddox, 25, is awaiting trial on chages of possession for sale of a hallucinogen. He was arrested March 12 at his apartment during a raid. Police said Maddox and a friend were bottling hashish for street sale.

Joanne Easley of WKRC-TV said she was filming Maddox at a court appearance when the 6-foot-5, 240-pound defensive end pushed her camera, injuring her eye.

Maddox signed a statement saying he apologized for the accident, but was not admitting to assault and battery charges.

The Bengals said they planned no action until the case is settled.

Baseball's untouchables

NEW YORK (AP) — As baseball, a game predicated on statistics, prepared to memorialize its one millionth run, someone raised the subject of the game's unassailable records.

Are there any marks now in the book out of reach of mortal man?

"To my mind," said Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, "the most remarkable record is Lou Gehrig's feat of playing in 2,130 consecutive games. I can't see anyone ever overtaking that."

Stan Musial, the St. Louis Cardinal Hall of Famer, nodded his head in half-way agreement and then entered a mild demurral.

"It would be tough," Musial said, "but, speaking as a hitter, I think the one mark farthest from anyone's hands is the 56-consecutive game hitting streak of Joe DiMaggio."

Ralph Branca, the former Brooklyn Dodger who served up that historic home run ball to Bobby Thomson of the Giants that decided the 1951 National League pennant, had other views.

"It is inconceivable to me," said Branca, "that any pitcher will ever win 511 games, as Cy Young did. Think of it. That would be the equivalent of averaging 25 victories a year for 20 years."

The three well-known baseball personalities all were principal figures in the establishment Tuesday of a Manhattan control center to keep count of major league runs scored in the next week until run No 1,000,000 crosses the plate.

The setup is similar to the control center for a moon shot with telephones hooked into every ball park and a clock which can stop time at 1-1,000th of a second.

When the historic run crosses the plate — sometime, somewhere — there will be a great celebration with prizes and all that other Madison Avenue razzmatazz. When the center was christened — with bloody Marys and half-sandwiches instead of champagne — the magic number was 444 away.

At one time, Babe Ruth's records of 60 home runs a season and 714 for a career were believed among the untouchable records. But Roger Maris of the New York Yankees came along to erase the first, with the aid of an asterisk, and Hank Aaron last year crushed the second.

Aaron subsequently has gone on to destroy other cherished records, such as most games (3,076 through 1974), most at bats (11,628), total bases (6,591) and runs batted in (2,209).

"If I had to rate the most inaccessible records in order," Kuhn said, "they would be Gehrig's string, DiMaggio's consecuive hits and then a tie between Young's 511 pitching victories and Hack Wilson's 190 runs batted in for a season.

"It's hard to visualize a modern pitcher winning 511 games but the trend toward designated hitters and more use of relief pitchers may make it possible.

Night games, travel and other pressures pose a barrier to the Gehrig and DiMaggio marks."

Do-it-yourselfers get certificates

PORTAGEVILLE--Eight do-it-yourself women mechanics graduated April 17 from a Course in Automobile Repair and Safety (CARS) conducted Hayes Ford Sales.

Highway patrol Sgt. Bill Darnell spoke on the importance of highway safety during graduation ceremonies at the dealership. Ed Flowers, course instructor and dealership service manger, presented a diploma to each women.

Members of the graduating class were Doris Adams, Karen Burks, Judy Dixon, Betty Ellington, Nora Flowers, Thelma Harmon, Elsie Hughey and Nina Kimes.

The five-week course, sponsored by Bill Hayes Ford Sales and Ford Customer Service Division, included a review of a car's basic operating components and instruction on how to diagnose typical auto problems and cope with emergency road situations.

The women worked on demonstration vehicles in the dealership's service department following each class session. "Hands'on" lab work included changing ties, engine tune-ups and checking emissions control systems.

"While the program wasn't intended to turn out professional techinicians, I believe it has succeeded in providng the women with a more thorough understanding of their cars and vehicle maintenance requirements" Flowers said. "Based on their favorable comments, we hope to hold similar courses in the future."

Power company suffers net loss

BLYTHEVILLE, Ark.--Arkansas -Missouri Power Company's "1974 Annual Report" has just been released, and the document shows that the Blytheville-based utility suffered a 31.4 per cent loss in [illegible] the last year.

[illegible] company registered increases in customers, electric sales , and gas and electric operating revenues, but the increases were offset by increased operating expenses.

As a result, net income dropped from $1,633,213 in 1973 to $1,121,170 in '74...a 31.4 per cent loss.

Electric sales were up one per cent, due in part to a 1.9 per cent increase in customers. But kilowatt-hour sales per residential customer declined 1.1 percent, caused by "extremely mild weather and emphasis on conservation," the report says.

Electric revenues from ultimate consumers (which excludes sales for resale) were up 9.1 per cent. Gas operating revenues increased half a per cent.

The report notes that "approximately 10 per cent" of the increase in revenue reflected increased fuel costs. That amount of their revenues, the report says, was simply collected from customers and paid to fuel suppliers.

The cost of natural gas purchase was up 6.1 per cent over 1973. The cost of electric power was up 40.6 per cent during the same period.

Maintenance expenditures and provisions for depreciation were up 11.3 per cent. Total payroll was up 5.9 per cent over '73. Taxes, including state, local and federal taxes, exceeded the firm's net income by $744,201.

The report highlighted one of Ark-Mo's major accomplishments during 1974, the completion of a 188,000 -kilowatt "peaking plant" at Blytheville.

"For the first time in the company's history," the report says, "we have the capability, through generation and long term contracts, of providing our total electric reqirements. Our customers have never been lacking for electrical energy, and we are planning so they will never."

In that regard, the annual report comments that, "The company's construction program contemplates expenditures of approximately $6,800,000 in 1975."

Ark-Mo and its subsidiary, Associated Natural Gas Company, served 118,625 natural gas and electric customers in [illegible] communities primarily in Northeast Arkansas and Southeast Missouri last year, according to the report.

Employes of National Lock surprised James Hardy, left, Friday, on his 25th Annivery with the company. He was presented a gift from the employees and a 25 year pin from the company. The presentation was made by Galen Kruger, plant manager. Hardy started with the company April 25, 1950 as a shipper. During the next seven years he did various jobs in the Rockford , Ill. plant. In 1962 he was made assistant foreman of the door lock department. He moved to Sikeston in June of 1970. In August of 1974, he was made manager of production control of the Sikeston plant. Hardy and his wife, Violet, live at 1805 Indiana St.

Walton had been a Ford salesman for several years in Sikeston and Williams had been a Ford salesman for 15 years for Fred A. Groves Motor Co. in Cape Girardeau. Williams remained a Ford dealer in Sikeston for 25 years before selling out to the present Ford agency, Sikeston Motor Co.

He moved back to Cape Girardeau in 1965 and, until retiring this month, had been selling for the Fred A. Groves Motor Co.

Williams says he plans to do a lot of traveling in his retirement.

He has two daughters and three grandchildren.

Doctor meets requirements for membership in academy

Dr. Roy Thomas Waltrip, Jr., 309 Salcedo, has completed continuing education requirements to retain active membership in the American Academy of Family Physicians, the national association of family doctors. The academy formerly was called the American Academy of General Practice.

The requirements call for members to complete a minimum of 150 hours of accredited continuing medical study every three years. Members become eligible for re-election at the end of following their election to membership. The academy, the country's second largest national medical association, is the only national medical group that requires members to keep up with medical progress through continuing education.

The academy, founded in 1947 and headquartered in Kansas City, Mo., was instrumental in the establishment of a new primary specialty in family practice in 1969. The new specialty is expected to increase the numbers of family physicians available to serve the public in the future. The Academy's continuing education program is the foundation of eligibility for family doctors now in practice who apply for certification in the new speciality.

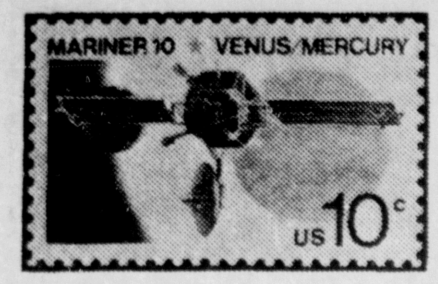
Stamps In The News

AP Newsfeatures

By SYD KRONISH



The "Modern Mariner" will be honored by the U.S. on a new 10-cent commemorative stamp.

The Mariner 10 unmanned spacecraft, which visited Venus and Mercury in 1974, is the main design of the new commemorative stamp to be issued on April 4 at Pasadena, Calif., site of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory of the California Institute of Technology. Cal Tech manages the Mariner program.

The stamp shows the Mariner in the foreground, with Venus and Mercury in the background. Across the top of the stamp are "Mariner 10" and "Venus-Mercury" separated by a red star. "U.S. 10 cents" is at the lower right.

In the 1974 "two-for-one" planetary mission, Mariner 10 swept by Venus while taking man's first closeup pictures and then went to Mercury, also getting closeup shots of the tiny planet nearest the sun. Much valuable scientific information was obtained during these flights which NASA hailed as a giant step forward in space exploration.

First-day cancellation requests for this stamp may be sent to: "Mariner Stamp, Postmaster, Pasadena, Calif. 91109." Ten cents per stamp (in money order, no cash) must be enclosed and requests postmarked no later than April 4.

Former President Harry S Truman appears on a new commemorative stamp issued by Israel.

Hailed as a faithful friend of that little nation, Truman announced de facto recognition of Israel within 11 minutes of its establishment on May 14, 1948. In Israel his name has been perpetuated in the village of Kfar Truman, founded in 1949, and in the Harry S Truman Center for the Advancement of Peace on the campus of the Hebrew University in Jerusalem.

Also issued by Israel was a set of three new stamps added to its Architecture Series, according to the Israel Philatelic Agency in America. The stamps depict examples of various buildings of outstanding architectural and artistic value which have been erected since 1948.

The Truman stamp and the architecture set are available at your local dealer.

The U.S. Postal Service has announced a convenient way for collectors to receive first-day cancellations automatically for each new U.S. stamp.

Souvenir pages are being offered by subscription directly from the U.S. Postal Service's Philatelic Sales Division in Washington. Each new stamp or combination of stamps, is mounted on an 8 by 10½ page suitable for framing or insertion in an album. A first-day cancellation is then affixed to the page which also has philatelic data and other information about the stamp and the stamp subject.

Hurricane Camille, which smashed Mississippi Gulf Coast communities in 1969, packed winds exceeding 200 miles an hour and tides surging 24 feet above mean sea level. The most intense storm to hit North America in modern times, it leveled entire towns on the low-lying coast. Property damage reached $1.42 billion — a record for a single hurricane.

He said the fencing installed on Burger's land was paid for by the levee board, but that it saves the taxpayers about $600 to $700 since he mows the ground himself.

Each section of the levee is leased to persons who use it for pasture or to farm, Moore said. The levee board's job is to see that requirements of the U.S. Corps of Engineers are met, maintain the levee and save the taxpayers as much money as possible.

Only land which could be affected by flooding is taxed to support the levee district, he said. The Corps of Engineers requires the district to have only a maintenance road atop the levee, and not a public road.

"Some think this is a public road," Moore said of the road leading into Commerce, "but this takes a lot of money. The levee board doesn't have the money. If the County Court wants to put gravel on the road, then it's not our problem."

He said, however, that he understood the county has not maintained the road for the last couple of years. "This puts us in a bind because we just don't have the money to maintain it," he said.

Wayne Diamond, county highway engineer, told the court Monday that despite reports to the contrary, the county has been maintianing the road. He said the road was graded less than a month ago.

"I don't know if it's a public road or not," Moore said. "If the County Court says it's a public road, then I guess it's a public road."

AIRLINE LOOKING FOR DOPE SMUGGLERS

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — East African Airways, the airline jointly operated by Kenya, Uganda and Tanzania, has launched a crackdown on employes involved in smuggling of narcotics.

Several airline employes have been charged in recent months with smuggling marijuana from Kenya to Britain.

The airline's director-general, Col. G. W. Toko, of Uganda, has asked associations representing flight crew and cabin staff for their assistance in reporting any of their members suspected of being involved in drug trafficking.

Students get No. 1 rating

Four Sikeston High School students received No. 1 ratings at the state music festival Friday and Saturday in Columbia.

Receiving the top ratings were Greg Danner, for a French horn solo; Kevin Heuiser, baritone saxophone solo; Jan Teague, French hornsolo; and Carolyn Dupont, harp solo. Miss Teague and Danner were accompanied by Kirk Durbin, and Heuiser was accompanied by Melissa Nelson.

Sikeston students who received No. 2 ratings in the state contest were Jay Lopp, trumpet solo; Andrea Harber, piano solo; and a flute trio composed of Kathy Cope, Laura Noyes and Tera Williams. Lopp was accompanied by Miss Harber.

Bryan Crites received a No. 3 rating for a snare drum solo.

A total of 329 high schools, represented by about 5,350 students, took part in the Missouri State High School Activities Association festival on the University of Missouri campus.

Civil defense meeting planned

DEXTER — The Southeast Missouri Civil Defense Association will meet at 2:30 p.m. Sunday in the city administration building.

A highlight of the meeting will be distribution of the first edition of "Resources and Communications Manual", a project of the association since its organization last summer. Copies of the manual will be distributed to all mayors, presiding judges and civil defense directors in the Southeast Missouri area.

According to Lloyd Miler of Poplar Bluff, president of the association, the manual is the only one of its kind in the state and its purpose is to permit city an county officials to become familiar with resources available in Southeast Missouri in the event a disaster should occur.

The cost of printing the manual came from contributions from Southeast Missouri cities and counties.

Special guests at the tmeeting will be Carl Carson and Dick Gibb of Merriam, Kan., representatives of Federal Sign and Signal Corp. They will present a program on how a storm warning system operates.

Anyone interested in disaster planning and civil defense work may attend.

The deadline for having the dogs penned or chained is May 10.

Tornadoes kill 5 persons

The Associated Press

Tornadoes killed five persons and injured at least 17 as thunderstorms rumbled through the South today churning out a rash of twisters.

Heavy thunderstorms during the night left many sections of Vicksburg, Miss., and Alexandria, La., without electrical power. Tornado watches were in effect in the predawn hours in parts of Oklahoma, Texas, Arkansas, Missouri and Louisiana.

Eighteen tornadoes spun out of the late April skies since Tuesday afternoon — nine in Texas, five in Louisiana, two in Oklahoma and one each in Missouri and Illinois.

Three persons were killed and five were injured when a twister smashed through the south Texas community of Yancey during Tuesday afternoon. Eight were injured in the Beaumont-Vidor area and four were hurt at Calvert.

Louisiana State Police said the worst damage appeared to be in the eastern central section of that state.

"At least two tornadoes came through Vernon Parish," said a State Police spokesman at Leesville, "and there were two fatalities."

"A little girl was killed when a tree fell on her at Pitkin, and a woman was killed when a house trailer overturned near Rosepine."

Identities were not immediately available.

Large hail accompanied severe thunderstorms that raked portions of Louisiana, Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri through Tuesday and into the night. Rains of an inch or more were common.

Wintry weather clung to sections of the northern Rockies and Plains. Stockmen's advisories were continued in parts of Wyoming and South Dakota.

Up to 14 inches of snow in the Lead-Deadwood area of South Dakota on Monday and Tuesday caused a lengthy power outage that forced cancellation of school classes Tuesday. The snow downed trees, which in turn fell on power lines.

Flooding — both from recent heavy rains and snowmelt — plagued scattered areas from Minnesota and North Dakota to Mississippi and Louisiana. The Souris River was expected to crest 4.5 feet above flood stage in Minot, N.D., today, and Army Engineers said the Mississippi River was rising toward a new crest in the South.

4 injured in accident

CARUTHERSVILLE — Four Caruthersville residents received minor injuries this morning in a two-vehicle accident five miles south of town on Route U.

The accident occurred at 10 a.m. near a section of road where a highway department crew was working, when an eastbound pickup truck driven by Michael Maurice Avis, 29, stopped for a flagman and was struck from behind by a car driven by Woodrow Wilson Webber, 58.

Webber and his wife, R. D. Webber, 64, were treated at Cain Clinic for minor injuries. Avis and a passenger in his truck, Ernie Harrison, 30, were taken to Doctors Clinic.

Letters to the Editor

Mr. Tony Pippin
Editor, Sikeston Standard
Sikeston, Mo.

Dear Tony;

I want to thank you for taking your time to provide the fine entertainment for our buffet during our recent press meeting. You, your daughter, and your friends did a really fine job. Everyone enjoyed and appreciated your efforts.

Many of our members said that this was the best meeting that they could remember. If it was the best, you and your friends had a lot to do with making it the best. If I can ever do anything to pay you back, please call on me.

I don't know what your paper's policy on letter to the editor is, but if you can I would appreciate it if you could run the attached letter from me thanking the Sikeston Merchants for their hospitality and the people at the Ramada Inn. If you can't run the letter please let me know and I will send personal letters. Thanks again for all of your help.

Sincerely
Ralph Clayton, President
Southeast Missouri
Press Association

LETTER TO THE EDITOR
The Daily Sikeston Standard

Dear Sir;

The members of The Southesast Missouri Press Association recently held their 83rd annual meeting in Sikeston. Many of the press association members felt that this meeting was one of the best in the history of the organization. If this was the case, it was because of the hospitality shown to the press members by the fine merchants of Sikeston who donated door prizes which were given out at the meeting; because of the almost flawless service provided by the manager (Bob Gray) and staff of the Ramada Inn; and the help of the staff of The Sikeston Standard.

Our press association voted several years ago to hold our yearly meetings in Sikeston one year, Poplar Bluff the next, then Cape the next, then back to Sikeston. We feel certain that when it is time to hold our meeting in Sikeston again that the largest crowd in history will show up because of the good time everyone experienced at this year's meeting.

Your town can be proud of the way its citizens and businesses greet visitors.

Sincerely,
Ralph Clayton, President
Southeast Missouri
Press Association

MEMORIES OF A SPRING MOON

I am a daughter
Of the past.
Sometimes .....
When the spring moon's full
And the mists begin to gather,
I let my mind roam free.

As I breathe
The cool, moist air
Of the woodlands,
I recall the awe
I once felt
At a shrill, sad scream
Of a panther
That I heard along ago
On a hill.

Sometimes, I think
Of that strange one
And wonder:
Will he pass this way again?
It thrilled me
Just to hear him
Sing a chilling song
In his own wild way.

Are we so bold?
Can we stand on that hill,
Alone in the darkness?
Can we shout so eloquently,
No matter our message,
And still be heard
In the land below?

For the wild things are gone,
And man is safe alone,
When standing on that hill.
Yet, the darkness
Is still there
Are there special words
We can say that will
Astound, awe, or thrill?

Time may still my voice
And dim my eye
And freeze my brain
'Til I bow
To humility and pain.
But my memories --
My memories will be hard
To repress.

Washinton report

Symington expresses gratitude

WASHINGTON, D.C.--As most Missourians now know, on April 22, I announced I would not seek reelection to the United States Senate.

A major factor contributing to this decision was expressed in my statement to the press in St. Louis, where I said in part:

"As the people of my State well know, during all my previous campaigns, as well as in subsequent Senate operations, my wife was my political partner, her efforts and wise counsel being of very great assistance to me; and it is no secret to my friends that herloss has had a major impact on my desire to continue in the Senate.

"Accordingly, I have decided not to be a candidate for reelection in 1976."

Much important business incident to the progress of Missouri and the nation will be coming up in the Senate over the next 20 months. As but one example, few would dispute the fact this nation now faces its most serious economic difficulties since the Great Depression of the 1930's.

These economic difficulties are further complicated by an energy shortage which has accelerated the flow of dollars from this country to nations overseas, a matter my constituents know has worried me for over twelve years.

At the same time, this Administration tells us the Federal budget will show the largest peace time deficit in the country's history, a deficit for the Fiscal 1976 estimated to be as large as all Federal expenditues in the year 1952, the year I was first elected to the Senate.

There would appear some positive notes, however. The Congress is changing its stance on this nation's involvement in various overseas military eventures. That change, in itself, should lead to more constructive priorities in the allocation of our increasingly limited treasure.

At the end of my present term, counting the seven years serving President Truman in the Executive Branch, I will have been in government over thirty-one years, and during these remaining months, it is my earnest desire to continue to serve the people of Missouri and the nation to the best of my ability.

My deep gratitude to you all for making that service possible.

$225,000 grant awarded

JEFFERSON CITY--Gov. Christopher S. Bond and Public Safety Director Michael D. Garrett have announced that the Missouri Department of Public Safety has received a grant of $225,000 from the Federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration to assist in the development of a Missouri Action Plan for Public Safety (MAPPS). The MAPPS program will continue throughout 1975 and will seek to identify ways of reducing crime in Missouri and improving the state's system of criminal justice.

"Se have been waiting several months to receive a decision on the grant application which was submitted in January," Bond said. "We are delighted to learn that this application has been approved, and I have asked the Department of Public Safety to begin immediately to implement this significant project."

Bond and Garrett indicated that the MAPPS program will involve criminal justice professionals, as well as public officials and private citizens who are concerned about the problem of crime in Missouri. Program participants will serve on task forces that will be established in six areas: police, courts, adult corrections, juvenile delinquency, criminal justice information systems and community crime prevention.

Anne Murray to be at State Fair

SEDALIA--Grammy award winner Anne Murray will entertain the crowds attending the 1975 Missouri State Fair, scheduled Aug. 15-24. Her performance, on Aug. 21, is one of many attractions booked for the fair this year.

The young Canadian-born singer is best known for one of her first releases, "Snowbird", which became an international hit, topping the American pop and country charts. She became the first female Canadian to sell a million records and received a traditional gold record for her efforts.

Since her success with "Snowbird", Miss Murray has appeared on talk variety shows, in night clubs and has produced several other song hits, including "Danny's Song", "He Thinks I Still Care" and "Love Song."

Miss Murray can best be described as resolute and straight-forward. She has the warmth and talent to appeal to a wide range of listeners.

She will appear in front of the grandstand at the Missouri State Fair at 6 and 9 p.m.

Two area students to graduate summa cum laude

CAPE GIRARDEAU--Valerie Rose Diebold of Benton Route One and Patricia Ann Dunivan of Puxico are among the 16 students to be graduated from Southeast Missouri State University summa cum laude, or with highest honors.

To graduate from the university with honors, a student must have an overall grade point average of at least 3.75 on a 4.00 scale.

Three area students, including one Sikeston student, will graduate magna cum laude, or with great honors. Only 232 students have earned this distinction this semester at SeMo State. Area students include James Mark Kelley of Essex, Ginger L. Wilson of Sikeston Route One and Victoria Lou Hamm of Oran. To achieve this distinction they must have earned a grade point average of at least 3.50.

Fifty-four students will be graduated cum laude, or with honors. This means they must have an overall grade point average of at least 3.25. Area students in this category include Vicki Lynn Hopgood, 911 Davis Blvd, and Barbara Hendrix Hunn, Sikeston, Route One; Lonnie Kay Jones of Bernie; Larry Kenneth Peters of Bertrand Route One; Debra Yvonne Eastwood of Chaffee Route One; Terry H. Gibson of Dexter Star Route; Thomas J. Hill of Illmo; Laura Jane French of Portageville; Margaret Ann Binford of Puxico; Rebecca Bain Rickman of Scott City.

The top three students in the spring class and their grade point averages were Lillith Mae Vandergriff of Farmington, 3.971; Carl Michael Bakewell of Desoto, 3.940; and Stephen Edward Bennett of Cairo, Ill., 3.938.

All honor students Sunday were presented their honor cards, which adorn the caps and gowns they will wear at the commencement exercise May 11. They will be recognized again at the commencement ceremony.

Quints receive names

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The Levy quintuplets, given an "excellent chance of survival" by doctors, are one week old today and have received names.

Mark and Pamela Levy of Fairfield, Ohio, said Monday they have named the three girls Randi Jill, Michelle Amy and Allison Stacey and the boys Neal Richard and David Eric.

Doctors said it would be at least two weeks before any of the infants would be strong enough to leave the hospital.

Only Randi Jill, the firstborn, has been removed from an incubator.

Legislators tour facilities

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Promoting the need for a new Revenue Department computer, Gov. Christopher S. Bond escorted Missouri legislators through the computer facility Monday.

Bond, who has unsuccessfully prodded the legislature to fund $1.1 million for a new computer, told the lawmakers, "The Department of Revenue computers are nine years old and they are obsolete. They are not doing the job effectively and they are growing more and more expensive to operate."

The legislature has repeatedly turned back funds for the new computer, but now is considering funds to upgrade the present one.

Rep. Richard DeCoster, D-Canton, who went on the tour, said afterwards that the department probably needs a new computer, but that he doesn't know if the funds are available for it.

Highlights and Sidelights

Unemployment benefits increased

JEFFERSON CITY--The Missouri General Assembly decided to play a waiting game with the economy when it approved a bill increasing unemployment benefits for the state's jobless.

The bill, signed into law last week by Gov. Christopher S. Bond, could bankrupt the Unemployment Insurance Trust Fund by the end of 1976 if the economy doesn't improve and people get jobs again.

The fund is danger because the legislators did not provide any substantial increase in revenue to cover the higher subsidy payments for the unemployed. Those hikes will have to be financed out of the accumulated reserve in the fund.

"We're talking about 14 to 15 months in the future," Rep Earl Schlef (D-Dellwood) said. "But we feel unemployment will go down with less people drawing the unemployment compensation. And from all I've read and from all the economists we've consulted, things should be picking up in the third quarter of this year."

The chairman of the House labor committee,Schlef said the unemployment rate would have to average 8 per cent over a long time period for the fund to bankrupt. In March, the state unemployment rate was 7.6 per cent.

The bill will raise benefits for a jobless worker to 65 per cent of his average weekly wage up to a maximum of $85 a week.

The level now is 52 per cent of a worker's weekly wage up to $67 a week. This bill also brings 11,000 new workers under the coverage and goes into effect immediately because of an emergency clause.

The changes in the law will cost the trust fund up to $58 million a year, assuming an average insured umemployment rate of 6.2 per cent. The rate stood at 8 per cent in March, higher then the actual unemployment rate of 7.6 per cent because benefits still are going to persons who have dropped out of the labor force.

The unemployment fund is supported by a special tax on business, and that tax base was increased by the bill, a move that will bring in an additional $5 million a year.

But with the new outlay higher than the additional income , the accumulated reserve of the fund will decline. The fund contained $240.3 million at the end of last year and Geoffrey A. McCarron, state director of labor and industrial relations, predicts that it will drop from the $190 million it has now to $100 to $120 million by Dec. 31. The exact amount will depend on the unemployment rate.

McCarron's figures show that if a 6.2 per cent average insured unemployment rate is assumed, the fund could go in the red to the tune of $27 million by the end of 1976.

The legislators, aides to the governor and lobbyists for labor and business agree that the legislature will have to stabilize the financing of the unemployment insurance program next year if the economy doesn't improve.

McCarron expressed concern about the way the General Assembly dug into the trust fund in the first place, saying that it was not designed to sustain a prolonged depression.

"We're in good shape when you talk of the short term," McCarron said. "The fund is doing what it is designed to do, but if the unemployment rate goes much higher, all bets are off. The fund isn't designed to survive at that level."

For more information, contact the Refuge Manager , Mingo National Wildlife Refuge, Puxico, Mo. 63960, telephone number 222-3686. The refuge is administered by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, U.S. Department of the Interior.

Pilot performs

The Thunderbird solo pilot domonstrates the maximum performance capabilities of the T-38 Talon. The U. S. Air Force Thunderbirds will perform at Blytheville Air Force Base, Ark., May 17. Their Air Show will begin at 3 p.m. The public is invited.

Air demonstraton team to be featured May 17

BLYTHEVILLE AFB, Ark– The Thunderbirds made a short visit to Blytheville Air Force Base recently on their way back to Nellis AFB. The Air Force Demonstration Team, after refueling for the return flight to their home base, gave a few spectators a taste of the aerodynamic acrobatics to be featured at Blytheville AFB's Armed Forces Day Open House on May 17.

The base will open its gates to the public at noon and will remain open until 5 p.m. The air show begins at 3 p.m. The Eighth Air Force Band will also be performing during the Open House. Among the various base organizations taking part in the event will be the Non Commissioned Officers Wives Club, the Officers Wives Club, and the Military Dog Section of the Security Police Squadron with a sentry dog demonstration. Other attractions include booths from the Arkansas Air National Guard and the Boy Scouts.

Many of the Air Force's operational aircraft, including the B-52 Stratofortress, the KC-135 Stratotanker, and the T-29 will be on public display. The Air National Guard will be exhibiting the F-101 Fighter and the C-130 Transport.

A commissioning ceremony is planned for 15 cadets from the Memphis State University Air Force ROTC Detachment. The cadets will be shown sworn in on the flightline prior to the air show.

Armed Forces Day 1975 holds a special significance in that it is the 25th annual observance, as well as the official kickoff date for Department of Defense participation in the nation's Bicentennial celebration. This year's theme of "Vigilant, Vital, and Volunteer," with emphasis on vital, befits today's military services as aptly as it did our fighting forefathers.

The message to the nation will be that the armed forces of 1975 are as vital in guaranteeing our national independence and personal freedom as were the musket carrying militia of 1775.

The United States Air Force Thunderbirds, the main attraction of the day, have the vital mission of demonstrating the professionalism, versatility and flexability of Air Force personnel and equipment.

Recognized by their distinctive red, white and blue aircraft, the Thunderbirds are noted for their precision aerial maneuvers, which are designed to demonstrate professional airmanship.

Currently, the Thunderbirds fly the Northrop T-38 Talon, a supersonic trainer, which at one time held 12 world records, establishing it as one of the world's best performing aircraft.

In addition to commanding the USAF Air Demonstration Squadron, official name of the team, Major Chris Patterakis, from Modesto, Calif., is the leader of the five-ship demonstration team. Following his lead are captains Gil Mook, left wing, Charleston, R. I.; Steve Mish, right wing, Fisherville, Va.; Doug Roach, slot pilot, Romulus, Mich.; and Jim Simons, solo, Grass Range, Mont. Maj. Ray White of Dallas, Tex, is the team logistics, officer, while Capt. Lloyd Newton of Ridgeland, S. C., is the team narrator.

The Thunderbirds team is composed of 75 men and women working together in over 25 different career fields. Many are from Western Tennessee and the Bootheel of Missouri area. In addition to the crewmembers, Major Patterakis commands three support officers and 65 enlisted people in the fields of operations, information administration personnel, photography, supply, training and life support and maintenance.

Although famous for their aerial demonstrations, the Thunderbirds are a highly diversified, flexible Air Force squadron. Each Thunderbird must do his job to the highest of standards as well as present the U.S. Air Force to the American public, and the United States to the people of the free world..truly ''America' Ambassadors in Blue.''

Boaters should check gas tanks

JEFFERSON CITY--State Water Patrol Capt. Claude L. Joplin alerts owners of gasoline-powered boats with self-contained fuel tanks that specific risks are involved in the operation of their boats.

Analysis of accident data indicate that a substantial number of fires and explosions on gasoline-powered boats resulted from the ignition of fuel, or its fumes, which had leaked from deteriorated terneplate fuel tanks.

Terneplate fuel tanks are constructed of steel coated with a lead-tin alloy. Over a period of time there is a tendency toward corrosion, resulting in serious deterioration and subsequent leakage of fuel into the boat.

Boat owners are advised to make a complete removal of their tanks if practical, and conduct a thorough inspection. If removal is not possible, a complete visual examination should be made, or a non-destructive pressure test conducted by competent personnel. Bottom surfaces and any part of the tank in contact with boat structure are particularly susceptible to corrosion.

SeMo stage band to perform

CAPE GIRARDEAU--The Southeast Missouri State University stage band will present a free concert in Rose Theatre on May 5 at 7:30 p.m.

The band, under the direction of Bill Ewing, who teaches music at Central High School and the university, will perform a variety of music ranging from jazz to rock.

The concert is open to the public.

In the new language, a "mailperson" can be a contradiction in terms.

New education programs approved for funding

JEFFERSON CITY — Fourteen new educational programs in Missouri have received approval from the State Department of Elementary and Secondary Education for federal funding of approximately $600,000 during the 1975-76 school year.

The grants will permit school districts and other local educational agencies to develop supplementary learning courses in addition to the regular curriculum. For example, the 14 new innovative projects include such study areas as environmental education, language development and reinforcement of basic skills.

Projects are selected on a competitive basis, with all proposals evaluated by Department of Education personnel and a number of evaluators outside the department. The number of project approved is determined by the amount of money available and the size of budget requests. A total of 47 local education agencies submitted proposals this year.

School districts apply for the Title III federal funds for the first year of operation. For the second and third years of the projects, the districts resubmit financial requests, with a 20 per cent reduction in support for both those years. At the end of the three years, local school districts are expected to carry the full cost of the project if it is successful.

One of the purposes of the Title III grants is to inform other school districts about innovative programs so that they may adapt successful projects for their own use.

The final decision on how much funding each project will receive for next year will not be made until this summer.

Projects approved for their first year of federal support and the amount requested for funding the first year are:

Berkeley School District (St. Louis County), $35,450, "Project LAMP" (Language Arts Masery Prescription), designed to provide in-service training for teachers in grades 7-12 in the skills of human relations, teaching of reading, diagnostic and prescriptive teaching strategies and curriculum changes to increase student achievement.

Camdenton School District (Camden County), $40,094, "Cybernetic Science-Career Oriented Curriculum", a science instruction system that will permit individualized instruction for junior high students.

Columbia School District (Boone County), $37,208.34, "Environmental Education Program", to develop an educational program which includes use of outdoor land areas in the Columbia community and provides students with the opportunity to become more involved with the natural environment through a series of planned learning experiences.

Division of Youth Services, Department of Social Services, $66,991, "Project VITAL" (Vocations Identify Talents As Livelihood), designed a a program combining two essential ingredients, vocational evaluation and community involvement, with existing prevocational programs. "VITAL" will serve the campuses of the Girls Training School at Chillicothe, the Boys Training School at Boonville and the Yuth Center at Poplar Bluff.

Ferguson-Florissant School District (St. Louis County), $74,996.95, "Staff Development System", has two major goals for teachers, which are to insure continuous educational program renewal and to have an individualized self-improvement program specifically designed for each teacher.

Independence School District (Jackson County), $65,528, "Secondary Reinforcement of Fundamental Skills", an in-service project designed to aid secondary teachers to better teach basic skills for remedial students.

Jennings School District (St. Louis County), $27,261.25, "Project CARE" (Counselors are Reaching Everyone), designed to train teachers to think and act as counselors with their students on all levels.

Kansas City School District (Jackson County), $74,748.90, "Multi-Media Appproach to Instruction", to provide in-service training and curriculum guides on the use of media aids to all teachers.

Lee's Summit School District (Jackson County), $20,984 "Increasing Team Teaching Competency for Problem Learners", designed to modify the instructional program, prepare the system for flexibility, and help teachers provide tolerance and acceptance in the classroom setting of children with a broad range of individual differences.

Montgomery County School District, $62,951, "Comprehensive Instruction Through Media", designed to provide a variety of services such as utilization of instructional media, home-based early childhood education and a system of circulation for reading materials.

Mountain Grove School District (Wright County), $23,297, "Communication Improvement Program", designed to transform a typical language arts program into a total communication program, including the areas of reading, speaking, listening, creative expression and dramatization.

New Madrid Masons to receive degrees

NEW MADRID — Master Masons throughout the New Madrid area will have an opportunity to receive three of the Scottish Rite Lodge of Perfection Degrees when they are conferred in ceremonies on May 16 at the New Madrid Masonic Temple.

William S. Dillon, president of the New Madrid Scottish Rite Club, said that following a 6 p.m. dinner for candidates and Scottish Rite members, the degrees will be presented by special degree teams.

Dillon said Master Masons receiving the three degrees will be able to complete their Scottish Rite degree work during a special one-day class on May 31 at the St. Louis Scottish Rite Cathedral.

Special activities are also planned for that weekend for both the candidates for the degrees and their wives.

On May 30, there will be a western-style dinner and dance with entertainment by Rex Allen Jr., Eddie Beers and Brenda Kay Riley and the Rhythm Drifters for the candidates and their wives. While the men are receiving the Scottish Rite degrees on May 31, there will be a special ladies day program which will include a tour of the historical district of St. Charles.

Scottish Rite candidates and their wives from the New Madrid area will be provided motel rooms on the night of May 30 in St. Louis close to the Scottish Rite Cathedral.

Dillon said additional information is available from any Scottish Rite member in the area.

What people are saying. . .

Carla Hills

"I don't try to be the secretary of HUD who is a woman, to be the best woman secretary of HUD, that's not my goal in life. I'd like to be the best secretary HUD has had. I hope I bring a multitude of perceptions to it both as a lawyer and from my background and various interests."

— Carla Hills, U.S. Secretary of the Department of Housing and Urban Development and only the third woman in American history to serve on a President's cabinet.

"The pattern is established. Every few years, someone discovers that the CIA is not doing what it is supposed to be doing: there is a loud declamation; commissions are established; legislators say that now, this time, they will do their job and find out what is really going on; a few agency officials resign; public interest, first intense, begins to wane; things return to 'normal' until the next wave of recriminations sweeps in. Meanwhile, the spying goes on and on."

— Columnist Alan Wolfe

"We're not talking here about rifles and shotguns, or about taking these away from the farmers. We're talking about handguns, which are intended to kill human beings."

— Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago advocating federal control of pistols.

"The big sleeper isn't Wallace but Kennedy. A lot of people are keeping their options open in case Kennedy gets in."

— United Auto Workers' District Council leader Ray Majerus saying many Democrats are withholding support for Gov. George Wallace as the Democratic presidential nominee until certain Sen. Edward Kennedy won't run.

"The revolution has moved off the streets and gone indoors. I don't want to be the only one left in the street."

— Eldridge Cleaver, 39, fugitive former Black Panther leader, saying in Paris that "things have changed" in the United States and he wants to come home from seven years in self-imposed exile.

"You (the press) have great power. And in the Minds of millions of Americans, you have betrayed your power. Your credibility is nonexistent and your audience views you with disrespect, contempt and yes, even hatred."

— Virginia Sheehy, leading foe of busing in Boston's school system, addressing the annual conference of American Society of Newspaper Editors.

"What I think is behind all this pornography we're seeing is impotency. If a man is a man — if he's sure of himself and knows what real love means — he doesn't need porn. Impotency and homosexuality are rampant in this business. No healthy man would look upon sex like that."

— Actress Katharine Hepburn criticizing the new permissiveness in Hollywood.

"They have made me president of the Cambodian popular resistance but that does not mean that I can see any role for myself after victory. Even if one thinks of a sharing of power, there will be a clash. I am a very independent man."

— Prince Norodom Sihanouk of Cambodia announcing he will retire from public service shortly after the Khmer Rouge complete the transition of power there.

Norodom Sihanouk

Great-aunt may be eligible for funds

(EDITOR'S NOTE: These questions and answers about Social Security were provided by Gary Eason, district manager, Social Security Administration, 339 Broadway, Cape Girardeau.)

Q. My great-aunt is 72, and the only income she has is a small Social Security check. Would she be eligible for monthly supplemental security income payments?

A. The supplemental security income program makes monthly payments to people with little or no income and limited resources who are 65 or over or blind or disabled -- so your great-aunt may be eligible. She can get information about applying for supplemental security income by calling or writing any Social Security office.

Q. My father's doctor told him that he needs a hearing aid. Will his Medicare pay for a hearing aid?

A. No. Hearing aids and hearing examinations are not covered by Medicare. Questions about what Medicare covers -- and does not cover-- are answered in the blue-covered booklet, "Your Medicare Handbook", which is sent to all people who have Medicare.

Q. I received a mail-order catalog that advertises plastic Medicare cards for sale. Could I use a plastic card instead of the Medicare card I got from Social Security?

A. Plastic or metal cards sold by some manufacturers are no substitute for your official Medicare card. The Medicare card that was mailed to you by the Social Security Administration is the card you should show when you get health care services covered by Medicare.

Q. I'll be retiring in a few months and would like to get some idea of what my monthly Social Security check will be. Is there some way I can figure this out?

A. You can get a free copy of the leaflet, "Estimating your Social Security Retirement Check", by contacting any Social Security office. It tells you how to estimate the amount of the monthly checks that you and your dependents may get. You should apply for Social Security benefits two or three months before you reach retirement age so your monthly checks will start on time.

Q. I was disabled three months ago and applied for Social Security payments but I still haven't received a check. When will my payments start?

A. Under the social security law, there is a five-month waiting period for disability benefits. If you are eligible for payments, your checks will start with the sixth full month of your disability.

Q. I always kept my Social Security card in my wallet. Last week, I lost my wallet. How can I get a new card?

A. Call any Social Security office and tell someone there that you've lost your card. If you kept a record of your Social Security number, give it to the person when you report your loss. You will get a duplicate card with the same Social Security number on it, but it will take several weeks.

Q. I farm on a fairly large scale and I'm thinking of retiring. What changes in my operation do I have to make to be able to draw Social Security checks?

A. To be considered retired, you must establish that you are no longer rendering substantial services in your business. This doesn't mean you have to stay away from the farm altogether, but you should decide how you will limit your activities and then contact Social Security to determine whether you can be considered retired.

Q. I'll be 72 in March of next year. I still work and earn $100 per month. Will my checks start at age 72?

A. The law was recently changed so that only the earnings in months prior to age 72 count as earnings for the year you become 72. Since you will earn only $2,000 in January and February, your earnings will be less than the exempt amount and you can be paid beginning for January.

The Egyptians believed that red jasper could make young girls beautiful and graceful.

Nessen says plans sabotaged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Several of President Ford's advisers feel someone is trying to sabotage his plans to run for the presidency in 1976 by planting false news stories, a White House spokesman says.

Press Secretary Ron Nessen made the statement Monday in response to an article in this week's edition of Newsweek which says Ford told a meeting of political intimates he would not seek election because of his wife's health and because he felt he could not spend the time and the money needed for the race.

"The President wants it known that this story in Newsweek is untrue. The President held no such meeting," Nessen said. "The President definitely plans to run for election in 1976 and he intends to announce his candidacy in the near future."

In New York, a spokesman for Newsweek said the magazine stands by its story.

Asked if the appearance of the Newsweek story indicates someone may be trying to sabotage Ford's plans, Nessen said, "Some of his advisers feel that someone is trying to sabotage his campaign."

Nessen said the advisers, whom he did not name, have not "zeroed in on any particular person or persons. But they have some suspicions."

Asked what evidence the advisers might have, he replied, "It's a suspicion. Whoever leaked that incorrect story is not a friend of Newsweek or the President." He said Ford was "very puzzled by the motivation of whoever did this."

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Taylor announce the arrival of a son on April 20 at their home on Matthews street. Mr. Taylor is employed at the Shoe Factory.

Beans, beans, and more beans! The Sikeston Seed Store sold 150 pounds of the green snap varieties for seed to C. G. Leakis of near Blodgett last week. Leakis, who is a Greek, and formerly of Chicago, has rented five or 10 acres from the Marshall Land & Lbr. Co., which he intends to put into garden truck.

Following the requests of the Mayor, Chamber of Commerce officers and other interested citizens, the Missouri Utilities Co., has drawn up a plan for a whiteway in Sikeston's business section, which would place 50 modern light posts on downtown streets.

Sikeston girls, competing in the food contest at Cape Saturday won first prize, although Cape high won first as a team by placing first in one of the clothing contests and the home nursing contest. Jewel Mouser and Forrest Carter were the cook team from the local high school. Letha Scott and Verna King were Sikeston competitors in the clothing contest.

E. J. Keith and family moved Wednesday to their home on North Ranney. Jack Lair and family are living in the apartment vacated by Mr. Keith and family.

Remodeling will probably be started next week on the Center street building formerly occupied by the post office department, Franklin Moore said Thursday.

What's the law?

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Suzy was a freshman at a state college and the first thing she learned was that she couldn't live off campus. Intent upon pursuing freedom as well as education, she put down her books and attacked the constitutionality of the regulation that restricted her living to the campus.

"You call that living?" she protested to a judge. "As a citizen, I have a right to reside wherever I want and to associate with whomever I choose. While college may be a fountain of learning, I think that regulation is all wet."

"No, it's not," responded a university official. "College is more than just going to classes. By living in a dormitory, students learn self-governmet, group discipline, community living and they have a better opportunity to create relationships with the university staff and other students. The regulation isn't intended to be restrictive. It's intended to be broadening."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you hold the regulation to be unconstitutional?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that not all constitutional rights are absolute and not on the campus of a state university. Considering the reasons for the regulation, noted the judge, it seemed reasonable and not arbitrary and not in violation of Suzy's constitutional rights.

Dr. Lamb

Financial and medical advice required

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 78 and seem to be in normal health. I think that with a little limbering up I might even be able to play baseball. I was a catcher.

Six years ago I had pneumonia, and the Xray showed what the doctor described as a tortuous and sclerotic aorta. In the past four years I have lost heavily in the stock market, and I am thinking of doing some truck farming to improve my financial condition. It would require some work, sometimes a good bit on my part. I also have a wife to consider.

DEAR READER — It sounds to me like you need two things, a good medical consultation and a good financial consultation.

The tortuous sclerotic aorta means that the main big artery that carries blood from your heart to all the body except the lungs has gradually hardened. With the loss of elasticity it literally elongates and can be seen on a standard chest Xray, particularly from a side view. Many people in your age group have this. It may not cause any problem.

Even so I think you should have another checkup with particular attention to whether you are physically up to the amount of heavy physical labor you may be anticipating. The status of your heart, how well you do during exertion and your blood pressure are all important in making the decision.

Then I would suggest you see your banker and try to get some financial advice from the investment and trust department of a fairly large bank. You may not be as bad off as you think. Stocks that lose value sometimes regain their value if held a reasonable length of time. Get an expert to help you with this area. Who knows, you may not really need to get into the truck farming business.

DEAR DR.LAMB — Each afternoon after lunch a group of fellow employes toss around a baseball, football or engage in fairly vigorous exercise. I maintain it is better for their health if they rested quietly after a meal, because the heart is subject to an additional workload from digestion.

They maintain that exercise aids the digestive process, and exercise of a vigorous nature after meals is a good procedure. Who is right?

DEAR READER — I am all for proper exercise. Light exercise after a meal won't hurt any healthy person. If an individual has heart disease and is subject to recurrent short heart pains, angina, he may find that they are more apt to occur with exertion after a meal than with the same amount of exertion before a meal.

So it is a matter of degree. If your fellow workers are pretty healthy and used to exercise then light or moderate exercise after a meal may actually be good for them. If they try vigorous exercise they may be overdoing it. When possible I think a person should wait about two hours after a heavy meal before reasonably vigorous exercise. A light meal may not have much influence on a normal person's ability to exercise safely.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O.Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on balanced diet, send 50 cents and a long self-addressed stamped envelope to the same address and ask for the "Balanced diet" booklet.

Today in U.S. History

By The Associated Press

Today is Wednesday, April 30, the 120th day of 1975. There are 245 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1789, George Washington was inaugurated as the first President of the United States. He was sworn in at Federal Hall in New York.

On this date —

In 1798, the U.S. Navy Department was created by an act of Congress.

In 1803, the Louisiana Purchase was made from France, more than doubling the size of the United States.

In 1812, Louisiana was admitted to the Union as the 18th state.

In 1900, the railroad engineer immortalized in an American folk song, Casey Jones, was killed in a train wreck at Vaughan, Miss.

In 1915, wireless communication was established between the District of Columbia and the Panama Canal zone.

In 1945, Moscow announced that the Soviet flag had been raised over the ruins of the Reichstag in Berlin.

Ten years ago: U.S. airborne troops began landing in the Dominican Republic as part of Washington's policy of using American forces to protect American lives and restore order in the revolt-torn country.

Five years ago: President Richard Nixon ordered American combat troops into Cambodia to attack Communist staging zones used in the Vietnam war.

One year ago: William Simon was confirmed by the Senate as Treasury secretary, succeeding Georg Shultz.

Today's birthdays. Queen Juliana of the Netherlands is 66. Conductor Robert Shaw is 59.

Thought for today: Love is like a mushroom. You never know whether it's the real thing until it's too late — Anonymous.

Demonstration illustrates the 'little things'

It's not everyday that the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs can turn into "human" telephone lines, have their brains worked faster than a computer or hold an intelligent conversation with a stuffed animal.

But's that's what happened Monday night when John E. Mohl, Southwestern Bell Telephone Company's science demonstrator, put on his show, "Little Things Mean a Lot" -for the Rotary and again Tuesday night for the Kiwanis.

Mohl, using slides, tape recordings and more than a dozen props, stressed the role of little things in providing good telephone service.

"Telephone calls you place around the world, across the country and even across town are easier, quicker and generally cheaper than they were 20 years ago," Mohl told his audience.

"This kind of progress," Mohl said, "was possible because of little things-such as solar cells, transistors and integrated circuits."

He pointed out that these "Little things" have actually reduced the cost of long distance telephone calls. "To call from New York to San Francisco in 1920 cost about $20 for the first three minutes- if you could get the call through at all," Mohl explained. "Today, that same call, if you dial it yourself, costs as little as 70 cents."

During his program, he called on membrs of the Rotary Club to demonstrate how telephone conversations are transmitted. Later, the audience participated in memory experiments which showed the average person can correctly scan a memory of more than 1,000,000 items in less than a second.

Mohl concluded his show with a stuffed toy dog equipped with a microphone and receiver. The dog was designed to help speech therapists break down communication barriers in children by talking from a remote location through the toy.

2,435 WRECKS IN KENYA

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — A total of 1,225 people were killed and 3,418 seriously injured in 2,433 auto accidents on Kenya roads last year, Police Commissioner Bernard Hinga said here.

Cape building to be renamed for Scully

CAPE GIRARDEAU — The new lettering has been affixed, and the arrangements are set for Sunday's ceremonies honoring the retiring president of Southeast Missouri State University and redesignating the Education-Psychology Building as the "Mark F. Scully Building."

Open to the public, the activities will begin at 2 p.m. on the south lawn of the building and a reception will follow in the Commons Room of the structure.

The program honoring Dr. Scully is sponsored jointly by the faculty senate and the board of regents. Principal speaker will be Dr. Fred Goodwin, chairman of the division of language and literature at Southeast Missouri State. His address is entitled "Of Men and Institutions."

Dr. William L. Tomlinson Jr. of St. Louis will represent the board of regents in officially renaming the Edcation-Psychology Building. There will be a response from Dr. Milford O. Holt, dean of teacher education, and remarks from President Scully.

Also on the program will be the presentation to Dr. Scully of the Air Force ROTC Outstanding Service Award by Lt. Col. Robert L. Mize, commander of the university's AFROTC detachment.

Dr. Larry Grisvard, professor of speech, will discuss the "Scully Scholarship Fund," which has been established by the faculty senate to provide grants for able and deserving students.

Dr. Louise Reddick, chairperson of the faculty senate, said contributions to the scholarship fund may be sent to Jack Wimp, Southeast Missouri State's treasurer. Checks should be made payable to the "Scully Scholarship Fund," she said.

Sunday's activities will be moved to the Rose Theatre of the Language Arts Building on the campus in the event of bad weasther.

Dr. Scully, the first Southeast Missouri State graduate to return to the institution as its president, has served as the university's chief executive since 1956. He has presided over the university during the period of its greatest growth.

The board of regents, in voting to name a building for the retiring president, broke precedent in electing to designate a campus facility for a living individual.

The Inflation Fighter

Money up in smoke

For a challenge, stop smoking and save money. Not only would you save money on the cigarettes, which is no longer a small item, but your health should improve noticeably. — D.D., Clinton, Ia.

Envelope intelligence

You can reuse envelopes by typing new addresses on peel-off labels to cover the original address and return address. — A.G., Bluefield, W. Va.

The well-used washer

When you are entertaining large groups consider using your washing machine as a cooler. After making certain that you have disconnected the washer, load it with ice and soft drinks. After the party it's easy to drain the water. — S.F., Chesterfield, N.J.

Pass it along

Don't throw an item away just because you're tired of it. Take old furniture, clothing, appliances and toys to your local Salvation Army, Goodwill Industries or a secondhand shop. — H.W., Arcadia, Ind.

Flatten first

Remove tops and bottoms of cans and boxes and flatten them. Crush other containers before discarding or hold for recycling collection. Ordinarily, 98 per cent of the "space" in a full trash can is air. — T.C., Cleveland, Ohio

OLD TIMERS BOTH, or so most tree experts would think judging by the sizable girth of these two Douglas Fir trees in Oregon. But actually, the one at right is an imposter — only 60 years old yet matching the 30-inch diameter of the 460-year-old tree at left. The side-by-side comparison was made to illustrate dramatically the great strides scientists have made in replacing lumber by accelerating tree growth. The artificial "super trees" are created by chemically altering cells from an existing tree to form roots and needles for another.

Farm bill passage urged

JEFFERSON CITY — Rep. Vic Downing, (D), Bragg City, has requested that C. R. (Dick) Johnston, president of the Missouri Farm Bureau, publicly urge President Ford to sign into law the emergency farm bill passed by the U.S. House of Representatatives and by the U. S. Senate.

Downing, who is a member of the Agriculture Committee in the Missouri House of Representatives, a member of the Missouri Farm Bureau's Cotton Advisory Board, a member of Missouri Farmers Association, a member of the board of directors of the National Cotton Council and vice president of the National Cotton Ginners Association, said, "I believe the image of the Missouri Farm Bureau would be greatly improved if Dick Johnston would let the President of the United States know that the farmers of Missouri need and are in favor of the emergency farm bill passed by Congress.

400 representatives attend conference

By J.T. "JERRY" HOWARD
157th District
Representative

JEFFERSON CITY — On April 13 I traveled to Washington, D.C. at the invitation of Secretary of State Kissinger to attend a National Foreign Policy Conference under the sponsorship of the state department and the American Association of Young Political Leaders.

At this conference some 400 representatives, senators and representatives of local government were present. At this conference various speakers from the state government covered their respective areas of responsibility. Subjects of energy, food, foreign trade and the relations of these to foreign policy were discussed as well as various questions asked from the audience were answered in a straight forward manner and overall I felt that the conference was a very good means for the state department to inform local governments and the average citizen through the delegates there. Since the information was given on "background only", I am not in a position to quote any of the speakers and therefore will draw conclusions from my notes taken at the conference.

A basic premise is emerging from our state department policy which says that the world is becoming increasingly interdependent. This means that we have no alternative but to do business with the entire world and keep all of our options open so that we can discuss our mutual problems and help to solve some of the problems that underdeveloped countries cannot solve themselves.

A point to substantiate this is the conclusion that now has been reached regarding the country of Bangledesh. The problems that developed in Bangledesh and the ensuing war were created by poverty and starvation. The immigration of people to Bangledesh created the problems of starvation for these people and competition with the people in Bangledesh for the available food supplies and land. Consequently, the Indian government had to step in and quell the problems.

The delegates voted by show of hands showing their opinion as to whether the United States should support South Viet Nam and most delegates were only for limited support for humanitarian and refugee purposes. This poll further indicates that the people of the United States on a "grass roots" level are assuming an isolationist attitude at a a time that we can ill afford such an attitude. With the interdependence of nations, particularly in the western world, western Europe, and North America we must continue to have liason not only with these nations, but with the nations in the southern hemisphere, China, and Russia particularly.

The United Nations and the role of the United States in this body was discussed and there was a great deal of sentiment for getting the United States out of the United Nations because of the amount of money that we are spending in support of the programs sponsored by the United Nations and also because the political structure within the United Nations has now changed and the 1-man, 1-vote rule is being applied even there and therefore the poorer nations could by coalition put us into bankruptcy.

The world food situation, population control, and the policies regarding the U.S. in these areas were also discussed. The U.S. has taken a position that population increase is directly related to the social conditions in the poorer and underdeveloped countries and therefore the role of the U.S., as it is being portrayed now, will be one of helping to raise the standard of living in order that they will have some incentive on controlling population. It goes without saying that the world food situation is directly related to the increase in population.

However the food situation is anticipated to become far worse before any significant decrease in population is achieved in the poorer and underdeveloped countries. It is difficult to find a basis for communications between a country which has a per-capita income of less than $150 per year and one which has more than $5,000 per-capita per year. The country with the smaller per-capita income naturally turns to us and says, "You have so much more than we do, why not exercise your Christian belief and share with us?"

We in the U.S. and particularly in North America have the largest area available for producing food and therefore the bulk of food production will lie with us for the entire world. I foresee a time based on the information that has been available to us through these conferences, that it may become necessary to use food as a bargaining tool in foreign policy. This would be a tragic event; however we are going to have to cause these nations, both poor and under-developed, to have a self-help program in order that any significant solutions of the world's problems can be had.

Failure to signal causes accidents

JEFFERSON CITY — Improper or failure to signal was a contributing cause in nearly 1,000 traffic accidents in Missouri last year, according to the Missouri State Highway Patrol.

Col. Sam S. Smith, superintendent of the Missouri State Highway Patrol, today stated that proper signaling by drivers can reduce traffic accidents and the deaths, injuries and property damage that result from these mishaps.

"It is imperative for the smooth and safe flow of traffic that drivers know what other drivers in the immediate traffic picture intend to do," Smith stated. "This communication between drivers can be accomplished by proper signaling. I urge all drivers to signal their intentions to stop, turn and slow down and to make them in plenty of time to allow other motorists to prepare for their movements."

Smith then pointed out that just as the proper use of signals can reduce the chances for accidents, the improper use of signals can just as certainly create hazards. One improper use of signals is that of relaying turn signals of other drivers. When a driver who intends to continue straight ahead comes upon another driver who is signaling for a turn, no signal should be given unless the turning driver will cause the other to slow or stop. If the situation calls for slowing or stopping the second driver should make the appropriate slow or stop signal.

"Communication among drivers through the proper use of signals is a must in this day of heavy and complex traffic," Smith concluded. "Each driver must know what the other will do. When communication between drivers breaks down, chaos and tragedy often follow."
